ACHS seniors set to graduate

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

About 475 Antioch Community High School seniors are set to march in the graduation ceremony when ACHS holds its commencement June 7 in the North Gym.

The 2 p.m. ceremony, which can be attended by invitation only, will be the last official act by these students as members of the high school.

"This group of kids has been wonderful," said Assistant Principal Steve Wapon. "They have done everything we've asked of them."

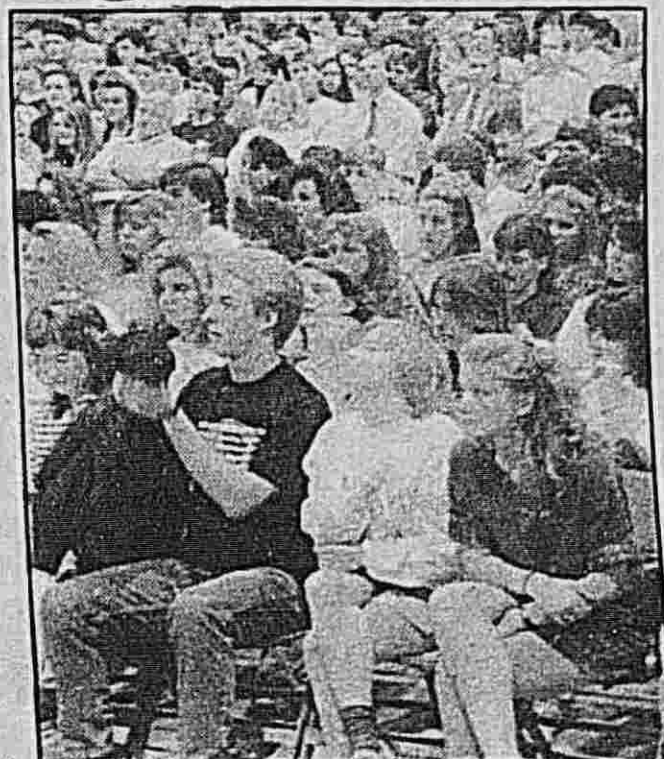

ACHS Principal Michael Radakovich continued the praise of this year's senior class when he echoed the sentiments of Wapon during the graduation practice June 2.

"As you know, this is my first year here at Antioch," Radakovich began. "This has been my most enjoyable year in my 20-some years in education."

Also deserving praise, due to the fact that ACHS does not have a valedictorian or salutatorian selected from the senior class, are a number of outstanding students who will play key roles in the graduation ceremony.

The first students to be recognized will be the two students voted the outstanding male and female students of the Class of '92. Outstanding Male Student Eric Nelson and Outstanding Female Student Carrie Delany will lead the senior class into the North Gym to begin the commencement.

The invocation address to the student body, a job normally left to the valedictorian, will be given by Amy Hansen, who entered her address into a contest judged by a committee that selected her address out of the many that (Continued on Page 8)

Road work will close Deep Lake Rd. to through traffic

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

With the warmer summer breezes finally hitting Lake County in the past few weeks, County road construction season is upon us and an Antioch Township road will receive one of the season's first facelifts.

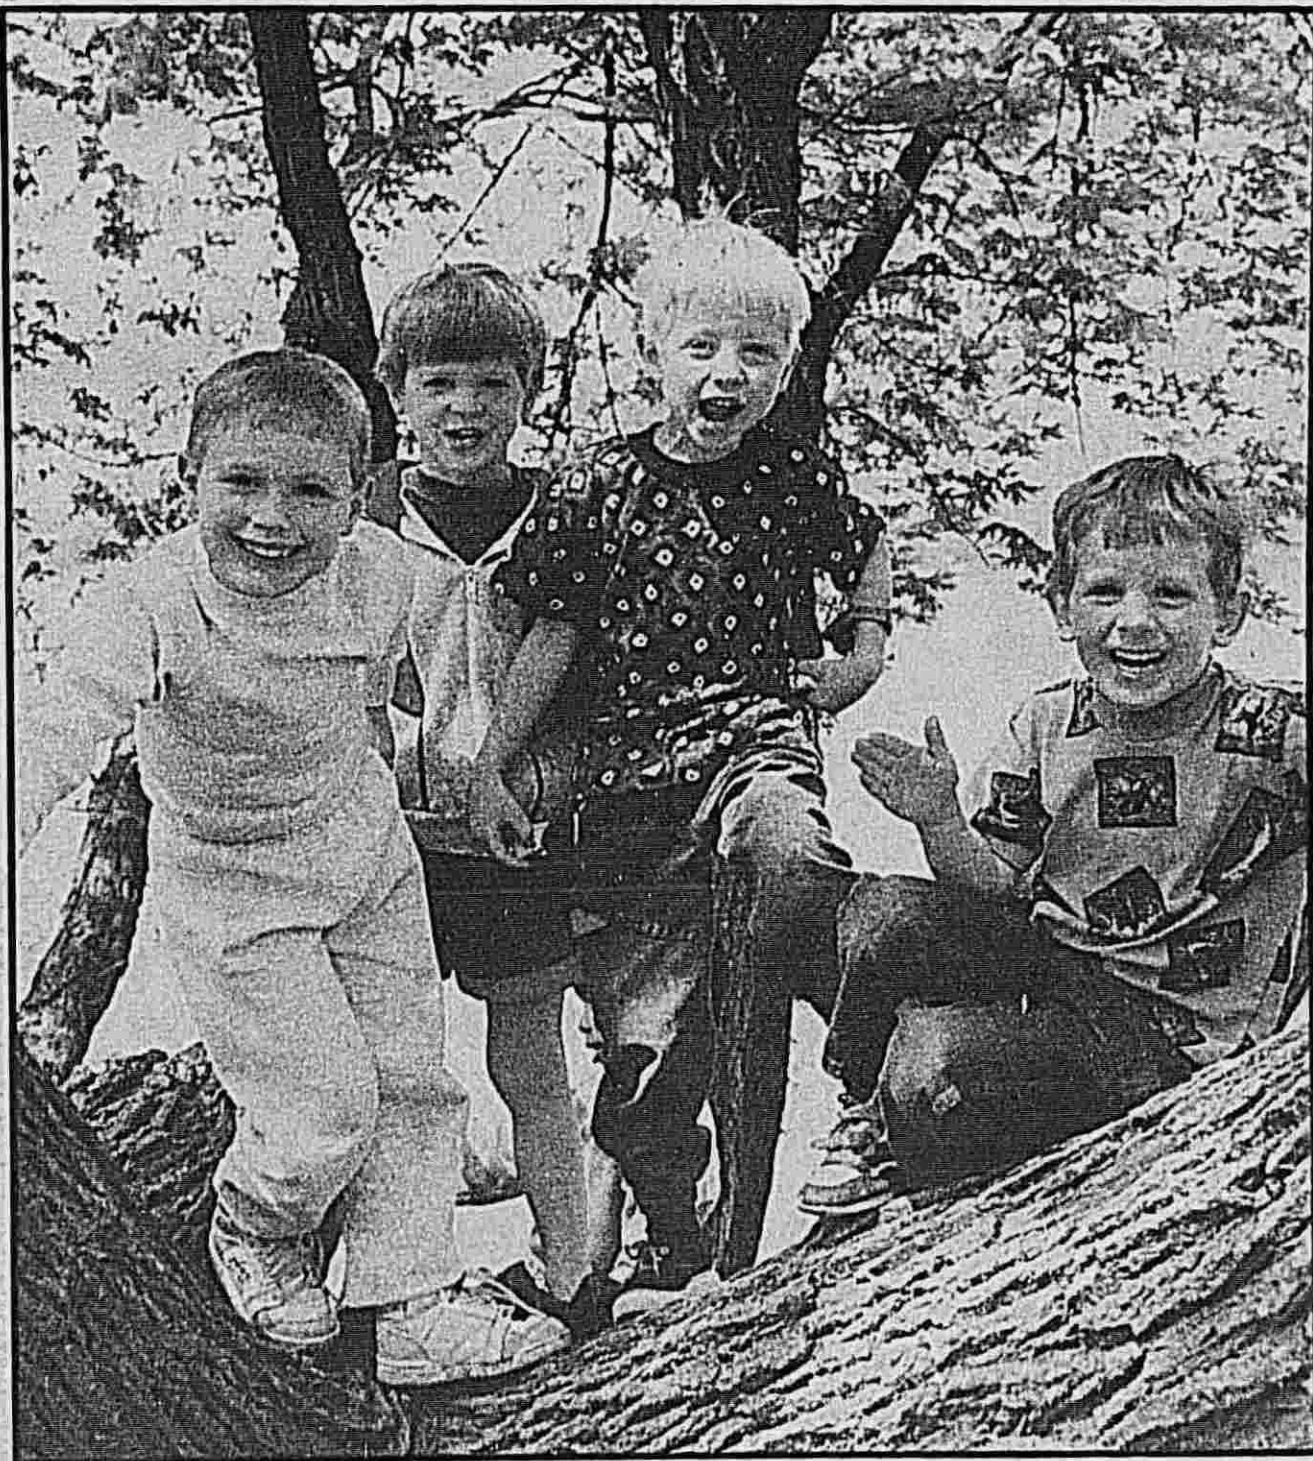

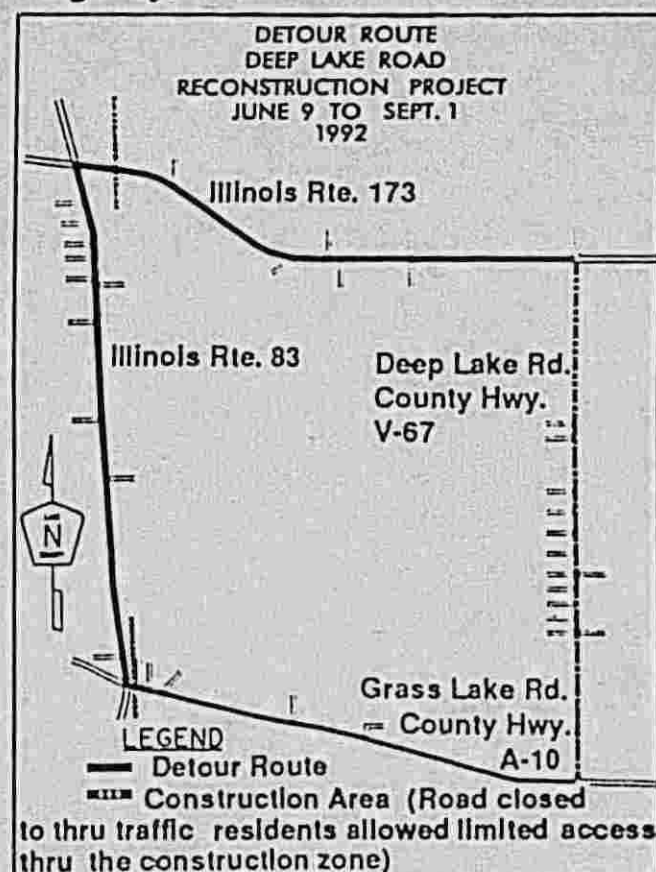

Beginning on June 9, the Lake County Division of Transportation will close Deep Lake Road to through traffic, from Grass Lake Road to Illinois Route 173.

Driver's who use Rte. 173 in an effort to avoid other northbound traffic on Rte. 83, will face detour and road closure signs despite having the road open to local traffic. Detour signs will take traffic west on Grass Lake Road to Illinois Route 83 north to Illinois 173 east before reconnecting with Deep Lake Road for continued northbound travel.

Road closure barricades will prevent through traffic but the road will still remain partially open to limited local residential traffic during the 83 days of road construction.

The need to close Deep Lake Road and the use of a detour, according to Lake County DOT Director Martin Buehler, is necessary for the contractor, Skokie Valley Asphalt of Grayslake, to reconstruct this 1.7 mile section of the highway.

Lofty adventures

With the ringing of the final school bell for the year echoing in the distance, Joshua Sucherman, David Roller, Cory Jordan and David Gabry are set for an adventure-filled summer vacation in their tree-house fort. — Staff photo.

Man may appeal kid-porn sentence

WAUKEGAN—A former Mundelein High School teacher convicted of possessing child pornography was sentenced last week to serve 30 months probation, pay a $500 fine and surrender his teaching certificate. He avoided a jail sentence. Robert Benjamin, 44, of Sylvan Lake, must also serve 750 hours of public service, pay court and probation costs, and undergo therapy. Benjamin may not have contact with children under 18, possess pornographic materials or be employed by persons under 18.

Benjamin's attorney Carl Clavelli said Benjamin is considering filing an appeal. Benjamin, an art teacher until he resigned after the October 1991 arrest, is taking the sentence "stoically," Clavelli said. "He's working and going on with his life. He's sorry he's not permitted to teach, but he understands why that had to happen." Benjamin, who resigned from his teaching position shortly after his arrest, is washing windows for the summer, Clavelli said.

Fishing derby set for Vernon Saturday

VERNON HILLS—The Bill Goessele fishing derby is set for Saturday, June 8, at Big Bear and Little Bear lakes. The derby offers a chance for area kids and adults to have fun in the sun and memorialize the late Bill Goessele. Goessele was a former village trustee and friend of event organizer James Heier, a current village trustee.

At this year's event, as always, Heier is set to man the barbecue grill. The event is supported by the village, New Century Bank in Mundelein, Chili's restaurant in Vernon Hills, Marshall Field and Company, and Wal-Mart. More information is available at the village building, 367-3700.

Betustak named unit leader at U of I site

GRAYSLAKE—Area resident and Lindenhurst Village Board Member Jim Betustak has been appointed to a newly created position with the College of Agriculture at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Effective May 1, the University of Illinois' Cooperative Extension Service, which has a Lake County unit located in Grayslake, announced that Betustak was selected for the newly created position of unit leader. Betustak's duties will include leadership of educational programming in the Lake County Unit while locally representing the University of Illinois and the Cooperative Extension Service. One of Betustak's priorities will be to clarify the roles of the Unit and Center in the new structure so that the public will continue to receive specialized educational resources from the University of Illinois.

Kildeer schools join push for gun-control

KILDEER—District 96 school officials joined a movement of school districts urging stronger gun-control laws to combat the rising prevalence of guns in schools. But one District 96 school board member said the district's new resolution for gun-control is too broadly worded and cannot succeed on a statewide level. The resolution urges the Illinois Association of School Boards to "vigorously support legislation aimed at banning the sale, possession and/or use of handguns." But School Board Member Irving Schaimberg objected to a clause in the resolution that states, "There appears to be no justifiable reason for the possession or use of handguns."

"What they're trying to say is that all handguns should be banned for everyone," Schaimberg said, adding that the resolution has little hope of being adopted at state school board convention in the fall. District 96 Superintendent David Willard said the wording might be made more moderate at the convention.

Preserve, society invite stargazers

WAUCONDA—The Lake County Astronomical Society and Lake County Forest Preserve District invite the public to a Star Watch program at the Lake County Museum at 7 p.m. June 5.

Telescopes will be set up for star observation. All ages are invited. The fee is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, students and seniors.

The Lake County Museum is located near Wauconda in Lakewood Forest Preserve on Route 176 just west of Fairfield Road. For more information, call 526-7878.

6 indicted in attack to give pleas Friday

WAUKEGAN—Six Mundelein men were formally accused this week in the stabbing of a 32-year-old man. The six were to make their pleas in the case Friday before a Lake County Circuit Court Judge in Waukegan.

Jaime J. Alfaro, 23, of 1415 Downing, Apt. 103P was indicted for aggravated battery and mob action. In the May 18 incident, a Mundelein man was beaten and stabbed outside a Vernon Hills convenience store, then hospitalized.

Indicted for mob action were Raul Galicia-Alfaro, 22, Jose Galicia-Alfaro, 23, and Jorge Gonzalez Romero, 23, all of 1415 Downing, Apt. 103P; Victor Javier Melesio-Soto, 33, of 1444 Downing, Apt. 102M; and Miguel Angel Yamez Torres, 25, of Sheila Lane, Apt. 102R. The six were free on bond.

The Alfaros are relatives and former roommates of a man accused of the March 19 stabbing murder of a 27-year-old Mundelein woman. Celerino Galicia-Alfaro, 23, is being held in Lake County Jail awaiting trial next month.

Fox Lake remodeling village hall entrance

FOX LAKE—The entrance to the Fox Lake village hall will be remodeled this summer to comply with the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) and to improve security. The village will spend nearly $42,000 on the project, which should begin by early July. "They (the trustees) figured between the ADA and the security of the building, this was the way to go," said Village Clerk Susan McNally.

Panic disorder: Signs, symptoms and treatment

June 17, 1992 7-8 p.m.

Presented by:

Robert Baker, M.D.

Staff Psychiatrist

Saint Therese Medical Center

Anyone who has experienced panic attacks knows the classic signs and symptoms: rapid heart rate, shortness of breath, cold and sweaty palms, dry mouth, muscle tension and a feeling of impending doom. In short, they are extremely uncomfortable episodes of acute anxiety. Many people who experience panic attacks are reluctant to seek help, either out of embarrassment or out of fear that treatment cannot help. But there are several approaches to the treatment of these disorders that have proven to be very effective. The presentation will review the forms of treatment available and help inform participants when and how to seek help.

Dr. Baker is a staff psychiatrist with Saint Therese Medical Center and is in private practice in Waukegan.

year—must have a point to make.

For the runners of all colors who will travel in two simultaneous groups from the top of North America and the bottom of South America and meet in the middle, the point is harmony. Harmony with the earth and harmony with each other.

When the run passes through Lake County in July, the Chicago-based Native American group behind the "Peace and Dignity Journeys" run hopes residents here join in.

But don't worry—you don't have to jog all the way to Mexico City: It's a relay run.

At a "pow-wow" exhibition of Native

American dance at the Lake County Fairgrounds last weekend, the run's organizers told county residents about their event and asked for their support. The organizers say the run is meant to bring together people of different backgrounds for a combination of cultural bonding and social action.

"This is not primarily a run for indigenous peoples (Native Americans)," said Duke Joseph Bigfeather Schallmo, a former Fox Lake resident and native Chicagoan helping to coordinate the event. "We're trying to bring together blacks, whites, red, yellow."

Native Americans traditionally viewed running as a journey of the mind as well as body. In the same way, organizers say their two-continent relay will focus on participants' concerns about the destruction of the environment and of society's institutions.

"You walk down in the woods, and you see all this pollution," Schallmo said. "You see on the television about some rapist or somebody cutting somebody's head off. You see the cities, the garbage, the prejudice, the drugs..." Schallmo said.

"You take a look at the world, and you know this is not the way the Creator meant us to live."

"To me, I see this as part of losing the old ways and traditional values," said Schallmo, who has Cherokee and German roots. "Whether you're black, white, Indian, all of us had these traditional values, and we're losing them."

Those who are running for "Peace and Dignity" are "people who care about putting back together the earth, who care about putting back together our families," Schallmo said.

A group of runners started from Tok, Alaska early this month, covering 100 to 125 miles a day, and a second group later took off from Argentina. Most participants run for a short section, but a "hard-core" group of 20 to 30 runners have pledged to make the whole 8,000-mile trip, planning to converge in Mexico City in October.

The North American group is expected to hit Edmonton, Canada this week. The run will turn through Montana, South Dakota and Minnesota and enter Wisconsin in early to mid-July.

Then the relay route is scheduled to travel down eastern Lake County after July 15, arriving in Chicago on July 18. Lake County residents not inclined to rattle their Reeboks can help in other ways, such as putting participants up for the night or making a donation, Schallmo said.

"We've turned down a lot of money from a lot of big, corporate sponsors because we don't want this thing to become a parade," Schallmo said. "We're working by pennies and dimes, with down-to-earth people."

Lake County residents can donate their feet or "just about anything," including lodging, food, money or transportation, Schallmo said.

"And if somebody can't do anything else," Schallmo said, "we'd sure like them to say a prayer for us."

More information is available from the Peace and Dignity Journeys office, 1701 W. 21st St., Chicago, IL 60608, (312) 733-6363.

Schmebels to hire a new tax accountant

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
Expert counters

People of all ages enjoy reading "Hometown Goodies" and equally enjoy having their special accomplishments highlighted in this column. After Grass Lake School first grader, seven-year old, Brittany Harrison, successfully counted to 2,000 by 10's, she asked her mom if this accomplishment was special enough to get a mention by "The Lizard" in "Hometown Goodies." Yep, Brittany, it sure is. Congratulations on a job well done. Also thanks to your counting reminder I am also remembering to congratulate five year old Thomas Marquart for successfully counting to 100 by ones and fives. Keep up the good work, kids. In a few more years you can help the Schmebels figure out their income tax return!

Dinner meeting

Once again ACHS hosted the Annual Board of Education/Administration dinner meeting in the high school cafeteria. Once again, the ACHS cooking staff prepared a delicious meal of tasty sliced roast beef, twice baked potatoes, mixed vegetables crisp tossed salad, dinner rolls and delicious desserts. Board President, Laurel Dahl did a fine job presiding over the meeting and introducing the guests. This year's meeting was highlighted by farewell wishes to Peter Palumbi of the Lake Villa District #41 and retiring ACHS Superintendent, Gary Allen. Entertainment was furnished by the ACHS Jazz Ensemble under the expert direction of John S. Olisar and the ACHS Show Choir under the fine direction of Keith Cox. Mr. Ed Gonwa, Lake County Regional Superintendent of Schools, was on hand to say a few words to everyone present and the various boards of education presented Mr. Allen with a beautiful retirement gift honoring his many years of service at ACHS.

Histories wanted

Emmons School was founded in 1814 as a one-mom school and it has had a long and colorful history. The people at Emmons School are presently in the process of collecting personal memories and reminiscences of Emmons School. If you have any recollections of past happenings at Emmons School, please send a letter to the school with the information. If enough information is gathered, a "Notebook of Memories" will be put together to capture past special moments at Emmons School. Emmons asks that any of our older citizens recalling or possessing Emmons memorabilia, please come to their aid to help make this project successful. It is always fun to glance back at our beginnings.

Hometown Goodies

Oakland School

The teachers and staff members at Oakland School would like to thank all of the parents who volunteered of their time so freely making it another great year for learning and also fun at Oakland. Thanks to the efforts of the PTO, the students at Oakland received many extra items. Congratulations to the following parents who were elected as PTO offices for the 1992-93 school year, President (Mindy Kenney), vice-president (Leslie Church), secretary (Ann Taylor), and treasurer (Judy Houtz). Thanks to the great efforts of the parents and students Oakland School collected approximately 900 pounds of aluminum tabs from cans over a three-year period. The money collected from the tabs goes to a fund for Vivian Samuelian, and ex-Waukegan, school teacher, who became a quadriplegic as the result of an auto accident. Oakland urges everyone to continue saving these tabs as the reward for doing so is two-fold—it helps a fellow human being and is also good for the environment

Antioch receives rescue/ dive boat for Chain duty

The Antioch Fire Department has received its new rescue boat for the new summer season.

The 22-foot boat was jointly purchased by the Department and the Antioch Firefighters Association. "This boat is a professional piece of equipment that matches the level of what we have in the rest of the department," said Lieutenant Pat Gannon.

The boat will patrol 90 percent of the Chain O' Lakes shoreline assigned to the Antioch Fire District and will assist other departments when water emergencies exist on the lakes.

The new aluminum design will enable the boat to operate in various water conditions, unlike the department's previous boat.

The Antioch Firefighters Association raised funds for the new boat through their annual fund-raising activities.

Hot boat

Students, who had an outstanding academic career at ACHS will also be recognized during the commencement ceremonies.

This year's graduating class will have 13 Cum Laude graduates, for those students who have above an "A" average. The Cum Laude system was developed in lieu of one valedictorian.

Naypaver, Eric Nelson, Christopher Shule and John Stedl.

"These students will receive a special award and will be recognized during graduation," said Wapon.

The need for a new recognition arose, according to Director of Curriculum Pete Pakkarinen, when the school changed to a weighted grading system four years ago.

"A student with straight "A" could lose being the valedictorian by adding an additional non-honors class even though that student still received six A's," said Pakkarinen.

Added Wapon, "We are able to recognize more students for academic achievement."

ACHS gets another chance to earn needed school items

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch Community High School's Sequoit Pride Booster Club is proud to announce that there will be a second chance to earn needed items by test driving new Chevrolet cars.

The Driving for Education Program, sponsored by Raymond Chevrolet in Antioch, will add the total number of test drives of the week of June 8-13 to the 70 drivers who already participated in the April test drive week in an effort to earn audio-video equipment for the school.

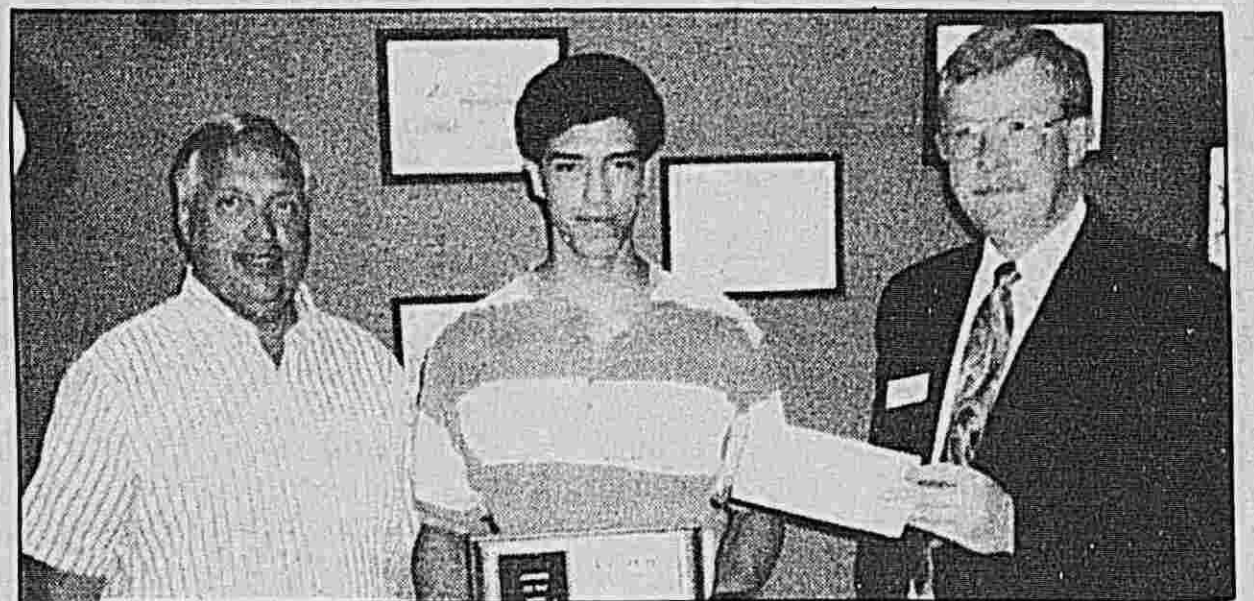

"I would really encourage the test drive," said Lyle Holbo, who participated in the April test drive. "There was no hard sell."

The program is designed to help high schools obtain needed Apple Computers, Magnavox audio/video equipment and Compton's Encyclopedias at no cost to the school.

"We hope to give away a couple computers and that is going to take a large number of test drives," said Raymond Chevrolet's General Manager Mark Scarpelli.

To participate in the program, licensed driver's, only one per household, are asked to fill out a "Proof of Drive" certificate and request that the drive count for Antioch High School.

The awards the school can receive are unlimited.

Athlete of the week

Antioch High School's Chris Bracey was selected Athlete of the week for the week ending May 16. Bracey placed high several events at the conference meet to qualify. First Chicago Bank of Antioch will donate to the high school in the name of Bracey. # Prepare children for being 'home alone'

Ok, so school's out and if you are one of the many single parent or dual income households with school age children, that perennial question of "What do I do with the kids?" comes back to haunt you. While we live in an affluent community, many of us realize that summer camp or a full time sitter is not within our means.

Cop Comment

While this poses the problem, it doesn't supply many answers. The answer for more and more parents is to leave their children at home unsupervised. Experts estimate that from five to 12 million children between the ages of five and 13 are at home alone for some period of time every day. In many cases, no child care is available. We call these kids, "Latchkey Children," a term that's often used to describe children who must stay at home alone and take care of themselves for some part of the day.

Children in self-care are about three times more likely than those supervised by adults to be involved in accidents, engage in delinquent behavior, or be victimized. And while no parents can be with their children all hours of every day, those who must leave their children at home alone on a regular basis often are gravely concerned about how well the children can cope, both with routine activities and potentially dangerous situations.

Some children enjoy caring for themselves and happily accept the added responsibilities. Others occasionally are lonely, bored, and scared. For all of them, however, the self-care experience is an opportunity for parents to discuss all aspects of safety and crime prevention, as well as build their children's self-esteem, confidence and competence. Moreover, studies show that a close relationship with parents decreases or moderates any negative effects of self-care.

Household routines

To promote self-care skills, parents should focus on setting rules and limits, increasing levels of responsibility, and communicating basic safety information. If children understand why they must be left alone and what they may and may not do, their risk of injury and victimization - and their parent's worries - will be greatly decreased.

Community resources

In addition to working with their children on the "latchkey" situation, parents can explore the resources available in their communities and try to expand the options. For example:

- Many voluntary groups run a "Phone Friend" program in their communities. This is a "warm line" that latchkey children can call if they're scared or lonely. It is not meant to replace regular contact with a parent or other trusted adult, but it could be a valuable resource, particularly for those parents whose jobs don't allow unlimited access to a telephone.

- There may be a block parent program, McGruff "Safe House," or similar type of safety program operating in your community. Check with your parent-teacher group or law enforcement agency. If there is such a program, be sure your children know the locations of the Safe Houses along their regular routes to and from school, and walk those routes with them to be sure they're safe. Point out areas such as alleys, deserted buildings or abandoned houses that should be avoided.

- There may be "extended day" programs in your local school or sponsored by recreation departments, churches, or neighborhood organizations such as the Boys Clubs. Or you may be able to start one, with the help of other concerned parents. It is always a good idea to check with your children's school about their policies concerning absences and release of your children to anyone but you.

Be sure the school will not accept phone calls stating that children will be picked up by someone other than their parents, and that the school will notify you if your child is not in class. Find out if there is a "Parent Alert" or "Callback" program or contact a local volunteer group - the American Association of Retired Persons or the PTA are examples - about starting one. This kind of program uses volunteers to call parents (even on their jobs) if their children are not in school.

Follow routines

If your children are to be in charge of themselves at home, discuss the routines they are to follow - household chores, pets to tend, homework, family policies on visiting friends or having friends visit them, and what to do when the telephone or doorbell rings. Also, if you are not going to be coming home at your regular time, let your children know!

Teach your children

- To memorize their name and address, including city and state.
- To memorize their phone number, including area code.

- To use both push-button and dial telephones to make emergency, local and long distance calls and to reach the operator.

- To check in with you or a neighbor immediately after arriving home.

- To never go into your home if a door is ajar or a window is broken.

- How to work your home's door and window locks and to lock them when they are at home alone.

- How to answer the doorbell and telephone when they're home alone.

- Not to go into anyone else's home without your permission.

- To avoid walking or playing alone.

- That a stranger is someone neither you nor they know well.

- That if they feel they're being followed, either on foot or by a car, to run to the nearest public place, neighbor, or "Safe-House."

- To tell you if anyone asks them to keep a secret, offers them gifts or money, or asks to take their picture.

- To always tell you if something happened while they were away from you that made them feel uncomfortable in any way.

We hope we have given you some useful information. If it doesn't apply to you, feel free to pass it along to a family member, friend, or neighbor.

If you have any questions or comments we would love to hear from you.

Bittersweet times

These are bittersweet times for members of the Class of 1992.

College graduates are faced with grave uncertainty whether there will be jobs waiting to be filled with their skills and energy. High school graduates chart their future in doubt whether further academic training or preparation for hands-on skills is in their best interest. Elementary school graduates and their parents are ensnared with wonderment over whether their first eight years of schooling were adequate and whether their next four years will prepare them well for the challenges ahead.

The uncertainty and doubt of the graduates is shared by educators, business leaders and concerned citizens who ponder the question of the connection between quality education and the availability of high-paying jobs. Underneath the questioning is the common complaint that schools aren't performing the task of preparing young people for the increasingly competitive U.S. workplace that itself is locked in a struggle to maintain pace in a global economy.

Graduates are getting all sorts of advice

these days. We'd like to add a few thoughts:

---College grads could well think small in eyeing the future, not reducing their hopes and aspirations, but tying their future to smaller businesses, the most robust part of the American economy and the segment creating the most new jobs.

---High school graduates may find it beneficial to acquire skills in higher education or technical school that are directly marketable, keeping in mind that individual productivity pays the biggest dividends in a competitive economy. The payoffs come from individual initiative.

---Grade school graduates should turn off the tv set and tune out peers involved in counter-productive activities. Read some books. Pursue non-academic learning experiences. And above all, discover the fun and thrill of learning.

Was there ever a time when graduates approached the next stage of their lives without question? Our society is crying out for a new generation with energy, commitment and will. Members of the Class of 1992 are our hope for the future. We salute them.

Letters to the Editor

Park tied to history

Editor:

I recommend the acquisition of Breezewald Park, by presenting this question to the residents of Lake Zurich, this fall, in the form of a referendum. The referendum should include the cost of land acquisition and the cost to transform this beautiful piece of property into a lake side park with a swimming beach.

In the early 1900's, Breezewald Park became well known as a public picnic area and bathing beach. Lake Zurich was the first lake people could visit coming out of Chicago on one of the few highways going North to Wisconsin. During the 1930's, Rte. 12 was improved to a four lane highway and re-routed to the west side of Lake Zurich. Breezewald Park still attracted thousands of visitors annually.

Around 1950 Breezewald Park closed to the public because of the advanced age of the owner, Mary Patten. In 1956, Joseph Schweda Sr. leased Breezewald Park and reestablished the public picnic and bathing area. Breezewald remained open to the public until 1989. The mobility of our society and modern highways wrote the final chapter on Breezewald Park as the last public picnic and beach area on Lake Zurich.

Breezewald Park is not, "Just Another Park", as some choose to describe it. Breezewald Park has a natural sand beach running the entire length of the property. Breezewald Park is a part of the history of Lake Zurich and should be preserved for today's residents and for use by future generations.

John P. Schweda

Film Fare objectionable

Editor:

I am writing to express my concern over the showing of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" every Saturday night at 11:30 p.m. at Mundelein Cinema. I believe that there should be acceptable standards of dress and behavior in our community.

I do not feel that men and women dressed in women's lingerie is appropriate dress in a public facility. I also don't believe men in their underwear reciting the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag to be appropriate behavior. I feel it is disrespectful to me as a citizen of this country and to every man and woman who has served in the military defending this country.

I will not be frequenting Mundelein Cinema as long as they endorse this kind of behavior by showing this movie and allowing this behavior and dress.

Abuse out of hand

Editor:

The recent tragedy of Libertyville H.S. students being involved in a tragic alcoholic-ridden automobile accident while in route to a high school function is just an example of how bad the alcohol/drug problem is on our high school campus.

I suggest that the high school administration invest in a simple breathalyzer device similar to what police carry in their squad cars. At request by a faculty member, a student should be asked to take the breathalyzer. If alcohol or drug usage is found on the breath of the student I suggest a minimum of flunking all courses (Continued on next page)

Perot's campaign sure to influence county election

by BILL SCHROEDER

Call it the Perot factor. Or in the words of a famous American, "That Perot thing."

Whatever, the involvement of Texas billionaire Ross Perot is impacting on the American political scene all the way from the White House to Lake County.

That's the viewpoint of a handsome ex-plumber who has assigned himself the task of toppling the county's most powerful politician, State Rep. Robert "Bob" Churchill (R-Lake Villa). Churchill represents a north county district running from Lake Michigan to the McHenry County line.

"I've got a chance because of the 'Perot factor'," exclaims Grant Farrell, a resident of Antioch who ran unsuccessfully for Churchill's seat in 1988. With Perot on the ballot, anything can happen, the likeable Democrat insists.

"Middle America is aroused. People are angry with both parties. A lot of people are going to turn to Perot out of disgust. The minority party always benefits in this situation," reasons Farrell, who now is self-employed. He put away his plumbing tools two years ago.

The way Farrell views the 1992 election, there will be massive ticket splitting. Democrats will benefit in Lake County; Republicans will benefit in Cook County, in Farrell's estimation. That's the way the Perot factor works.

Farrell has done his homework in preparing his strategy against Churchill, who is Lake County GOP chairman, leader of the county Republican delegation in Springfield, close to Gov. Jim Edgar and GOP General Assembly leaders; in other words, a consummate insider.

Four years ago, Farrell garnered 38.9 percent of the overall vote in his losing battle with Churchill. A key point from '88, in Farrell's mind, is that he won 46 percent of the independent vote. "There'll be a bigger independent vote this fall. That's the Perot factor," he points out.

Farrell's figures show that party line voting in Lake County is pretty constant, Democrats getting 12 percent straight tickets and Republicans getting 28 percent. "The rest are swing voters."

So much for the numbers. How is Farrell going to sway all those independents and disgruntled Republicans? Glad you asked.

"I made mistakes four years ago that I won't make again. I've learned from the past. I'm going to hit Churchill on spending. He's a tax-and-spend politician from the Jim Thompson school. I'm not an attorney. That'll help me. I'm going to hit Churchill on his campaign spending, the money he gets from PAC's." Farrell also believes his opponent is vulnerable for conflict-of-interest reasons and long-standing support for the controversial Rte. 53 extension. That isn't all, Farrell adds. Other issues will develop in due time.

LIMIT---Call Dorothy Keene Allen, 83, a victim of urbanization. From an imposing two story home atop a hill on S. Milwaukee Ave., Mrs. Allen has watched unrepentantly the growth of Libertyville close in around her. The "sounds of suburbia," car traffic and nearby shopping centers, drown out song birds. A loudspeaker from a nearby auto dealership blares out instructions from morning to night. There comes a time when forbearance is replaced by anger. The patrician matron whose family has done so much over the years to further the work of nearby Condell Medical Center finally has reached a limit. Lawyers have been called. Now there likely will be legal action. And that is sad.

CHARITABLE---Charles A. Cardella, Buffalo Grove businessman and politician, can afford to be charitable. A Republican newcomer, Cardella won a surprise state representative nomination over two better known candidates from the new 60th Dist. covering the south eastern part of Lake County.

While thanking everyone in sight for his success, Cardella wants to reach out to voters who supported his opponents and forge a new force by discussing key issues facing Illinois. Good idea and good politics. Cardella has caught the attention of a lot of people because he's a fresh new face and a non-lawyer. It's no surprise that his thrust if elected in November will be pursuing policies that improve the state's business climate. What? No new laws followed by a flood of litigation? Cardella could be starting a new trend.

TEAMMATES---Steve and Marlene Huff sound like a sure-fire business team. The Libertyville couple is holding grand opening festivities Saturday, June 6, at their new Ziebart Tidy Car Care Center in Palatine. "Marlene's the boss---just like home," chuckles Steve, who said his wife is president and CEO, secretary and treasurer of the company. "Me? I'm just the vice president and sales manager," reported Steve, who is a Vietnam veteran. He described himself as a corporate restructuring "casualty," meaning out of a job not long ago. So after 14 years as an executive, Steve's in business for himself.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY---Karen grew up and left home as grownup offspring tend to do. Fortunately for mom and pop she left K.C. behind. K.C. came to our house as a frightened, jet black kitten on Friday the 13th on Karen's 13th birthday. As an adult, K.C. became an affectionate, easy-to-live-with cat, only occasionally resorting to feline ferocity when she spied a careless gopher or an unsuspecting field mouse during one of her regular explorations of the yard. Otherwise, K.C. was a perfect, beautiful lady who responded to compliments with purrs and stretches that seemed to extend her sleek, gleaming body to twice its length, the picture of health. In typical cat fashion, K.C. had her favorite spots around the house. One of them was the center of the kitchen floor where she could stretch and observe what was going on about her during meal time. Over the years, K. C. grabbed our hearts tightly and we willingly held on. So mom and pop were caught off guard when K.C. became ill not long ago and required medical attention. Her condition was diagnosed as kidney failure. We were taught how to treat K.C. with an intravenous solution that would prop up her failing organ. With the help of a special diet, K.C. became her old self again. But her recovery was short. After only a few weeks it was back to the hospital again. And then the end came quickly, 13 days shy of her 12th anniversary as a member of our household. Is nearly 12 years too short a time to enjoy the companionship of a faithful cat? Most certainly, when that loving creature is snatched away. After the hurt is gone, though, we'll probably realize it was long enough to store a flood of memories of a perfect pet.

Productivity increases depend on education

by WILLIAM KOLBERG

Education Today: What exactly is the connection between the quality of our schools and the quality of our workforce?

Kolberg: Education and knowledge have become the most important elements in workplace productivity. That hasn't always been so. Not long ago, productivity was affected in large measure by the existence of natural resources, geography, and population. Today, it's estimated that 70 percent of American products are affected by international competition. So if Americans aren't better educated than South Koreans, we won't earn as much as South Koreans.

Education Today: How serious is the problem?

Kolberg: It is very serious. Between twenty and forty million American workers are functionally illiterate—they can't read beyond a seventh-grade level or compute beyond a fifth-grade level. In many cases, that means that I, a business manager, can't hand you, an employee, a manual for operating a new machine or upgrading an assembly line and expect you to be able to follow instructions. I can't expect you to work in teams comfortably. If I can't do that, I have to train you.

Employees like these aren't all high school dropouts. Thirty-five to 40 percent of American high-school graduates go into the workforce unprepared to compete.

Education Today: How does that kind of problem affect the country? What are the warning signs?

Kolberg: There are economic warning signs and there are educational warning signs. On the economic side, our national productivity increase rates are off. There is a direct relation between productivity and wages. Average weekly real wages are off 12 percent in the last twenty years.

On the education side, we can look at international comparisons of American students to those in other countries in math and science. We always rate near the bottom, no matter what the test or assessment.

Education Today: How can parents know if they have a problem in their schools?

Kolberg: Parents need to understand that this is a national problem affecting all schools. Even if children are getting A's in school, parents need to question whether they would be getting A's if they were compared with students in other countries. Unfortunately, A's in the U.S. would not be passing grades in Japan, Germany, Sweden, and other countries. Even in the best suburban schools, A's would be C's, D's, and F's.

Education Today: What is the cause of this competitive problem?

Kolberg: We have to look at it on two levels. Educationally, we do not have national standards. Once we have these, we can measure accomplishments more accurately. We will be able to say that fourth graders should know certain things and if they don't know them, they are not up to world standards. This will mean moving away from throwaway subjects in high school and other things that interfere with overall achievement.

But beyond that, a big part of the problem starts in our homes. They are different than they used to be. If two exhausted parents pick up their children and bring them home to turn on the TV, that discourages learning. We know kids watch a lot more TV than they ever did. We know that only 25 percent of parents ever show up in schools and even know their children's teachers. That's an indictment of all of us.

Other cultures value education much more than we do. Our society has to get serious about education. We spend on average what other countries do, but we are not getting the bang for the buck. We have 180 days of school here, versus 220 or 240 in other countries. It's a part-time endeavor. We don't value teachers highly enough. You get what you pay for.

Education Today: America's business and education establishments have never been very close. What kind of links must be forged in the future?

Kolberg: In a number of cities,

School Days: How They Stack Up

While Japanese children have a longer school year, U.S. school children have a longer school day. Japanese teachers spend the extra time each day reviewing homework and results. U.S. teachers tend to have less time for these activities.

businesses have tried to provide incentives, saying if schools increase test scores and reduce dropout rates, they will provide jobs. But that doesn't seem to have worked. I think that business needs to be involved in different ways. At the National Alliance of Business, we are trying to be advocates for national standards. We have a good start, but that is all.

Education Today: Employees of America's corporations would seem like a natural army for business to mobilize parents, yet few companies are trying to educate their employees about educational reform. What can business do to help this effort along?

Kolberg: Business can help a great deal by using its closeness to employees to move reform along. So far, not enough businesses are doing things. They can give employees release time to be in-involved, they can encourage employees to volunteer as mentors, especially in big cities. It sounds corny, but business needs to get more family-friendly. Employers need to understand that parents want to know where their kids are, what they are doing. If businesses are interested in productivity, they need to be interested in their employees' families.

Editor's note: William Kolberg is president of the National Alliance of Business representing more than 3,000 businesses. This interview originally appeared in Education Today, a nationally distributed newsletter on education. Kolberg is co-author of a new book, "Rebuilding America's Workforce: Business Strategies to Close the Competitive Gap."

being taken that semester.

This would provide incentive to these kids to "keep it clean."

Alcohol, sex and drugs are out of hand on not only on the Libertyville campus but every high school in the area and until we begin clamping down -- hard and often -- on the problem we can expect it to rage out of hand.

Why doesn't the faculty invite those Libertyville H.S. students who are involved in alcohol and drug 12th step programs already start daily meetings on the campus? I'm sure that the old-timers in AA, CA and NA would be glad to lend a hand. Maybe if we moved meetings onto the campus more students would realize that they are out of hand and come forward and see that there really is life after alcohol or drugs.

BEAUTY OR BEAST?

In Vernon Hills things sometimes move a little slow. Then again, they can happen virtually overnight.

Like the beauty pageant committee to pick the 1992 Miss Vernon Hills. That took only two weeks to form.

But a traffic advisory committee. That's coming. It has been since October.

Residents have shown up for months, maybe years, at village board meetings questioning speed limits, reckless driving, closed streets, detours, rush hours, stop lights, stop signs, etc.

Now, with summer almost here and the village already putting up more detour signs, the traffic watchers are again clamoring for relief.

All good things take time, says village Mgr. Larry Laschen.

JUDGES VS. POLITICS

Norman Geary, you remember him? The one-time chairman of the County Board and Avon Twp. supervisor. He has a new crusade.

Geary thinks judges should be selected by merit appointment, not elected. "Every two or four years judges in Illinois get caught up in the political process," Geary explained. They attend all the right political functions, rub elbows with the power brokers, spend money to get elected and, in general, are as political as anyone else on the ballot. "The rest of their term they must remove themselves from this circus. State law says so.

"To get elected they need political connections. And when they get into office, it is only natural to return favors to the lawyers and politicians who helped them."

Geary said 35 states use a merit system to pick judges. Will Illinois become No. 36?

Geary isn't too confident. "Voters are brainwashed into believing they will be disenfranchised under the merit system. But what it really means is the political kingmakers lose another area of influence."

FATE, LOVE AND....

Fate must have done it. Two of the few Democrats in Wauconda found each other.

Trustee Lee Hampel and horse farm owner Beth Geuzendam will tie the knot. The date is July 31.

The high school math teacher is best known for his Abe Lincoln look-alike appearances. She is the avowed environmentalist opposed to the 803-home Roney Farm annexation. Both were on the same side of that issue, which went down to a 4-3 rejection by the village board.

Hampel will keep his house in town, she in the country.

With a little bit of luck in November, there could be two politicians in the house. Geuzendam is a candidate for the County Board in Dist. 5.

As for the romance, this is one case where politics does not make strange bed-fellows.

SHAKING UP THE GOP

A dentist by the name of James Brophy wants to shake up the Republican party. A Republican precinct committee-man in Ingleside, he's running for coroner on the Democratic ticket.

This is sure to get him a fourth censure by the party in his 20 years as a committeeman. Before going that far, the party is trying to kick him off the ballot.

"The GOP has a lot to fear," Brophy said. "I'm more qualified than the present office holder.

"Over the years the party has discouraged good candidates. It elects those who owe their allegiance to the machine."

Brophy promises a no-holds barred campaign. Sheriff's deputies and police officers around the county are feeding him tips that make grand jury investigations.

MAN WITH POWER

James Semmerling can make news without really trying.

As Lake Villa Twp. highway commissioner he rules with a heavy hand.

His feud with the township board is legendary. When the board asked the Commonwealth Edison Co.'s tree trimming service for wood chips from work on township right of way, the answer was yes.

Semmerling said no. If it did, Wright Tree Trimming Service could no longer park its trucks overnight next to the township garage. The township board said it controls that land, not Semmerling.

Then there's the $80,000 spent to alleviate flooding at homes near Columbia Bay and Academy Dr. in Fox Lake Hills.

"Semmerling sabotaged the project by not allowing key drains on the township right of way," one person said. Now, instead of the three days it took flood water to recede, it takes one.

One homeowner who volunteered professional services for the project was red tagged for having a large, decorative boulder in the right of way. Another tag was threatened a neighbor with new sod in the right of way.

Funny thing, though, Semmerling keeps getting re-elected.

NEW FATHER FIGURE

Jim Betusak is the new man in charge at the Cooperative Extension Service in Grayslake. That's 4-H, farm programs and more. This makes him the Ray Nichols (deceased) and Bob Schmerbauch (retired) of 1992.

When not in a bandanna and blue jeans, Betusak is a Lindenhurst village trustee. Two years ago he was part of the Lake County Court Services program that kept track of prisoners released on monitoring bracelets.

Were it not for other things, his title might have been Father Betusak. The native of Hammond, Ind., graduated from St. Meinard Seminary in Indiana and attended St. Mary's of the Lake seminary in Mundelein for three years.

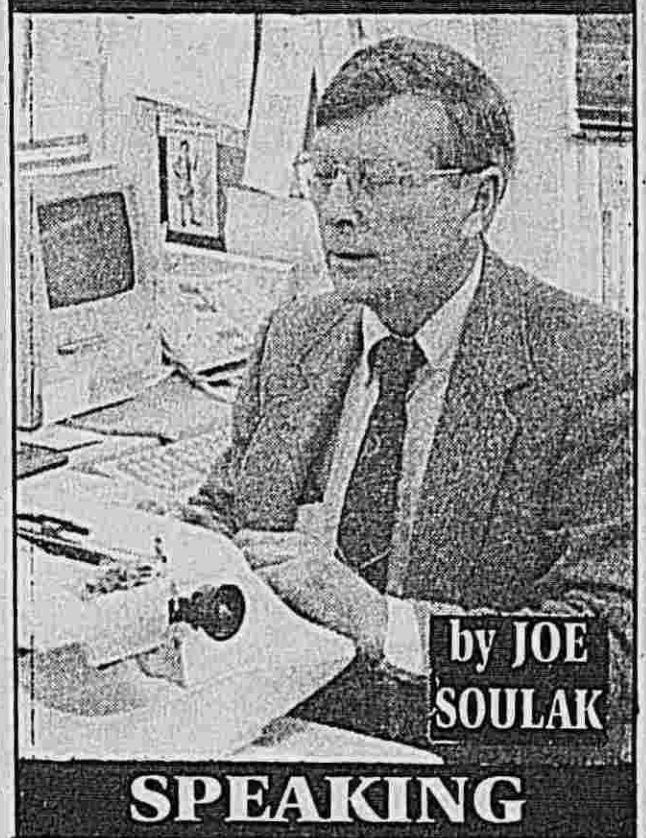

He's as human and as down to earth a person as you would ever want to meet. And you'll be surprised to know he puts on his pants one leg at a time just like other men.

OVERHEARD/SEEN

SPRINGFIELD—In a mid-May issue of the Springfield Scene, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce political report, is a smiling state Rep. Robert Churchill. He's pictured with state Chamber President Lester W. Brann as a friend of the Illinois business community.

Churchill, who lives in Lake Villa, is identified as being R-Antioch. ROUND LAKE BEACH—Who's the real village clerk. Is it Sharon Fyfe, who was appointed to that position last month by the village board? Or is it Donna Langel, who resigned in the wake of a $53,000 theft investigation? A nameplate in the village hall council chambers says: "Donna Langel, Village Clerk." GRAYSLAKE—Native Jo Jorgensen was back in town this week. ## Selfless, giving couple

Editor:

As one fortunate enough to have observed at close proximity the conception, development and birth of Antioch's Centennial Playground, I commend with sincerest admiration our two general coordinators---Ted and Vickie Axton.

Due entirely to Mr. and Mrs. Axton's initiative, leadership and determination, the Centennial Playground Committee was formed, encouraged and rewarded with the pride of accomplishment. The reality of Centennial Playground is not only a monument to Antioch, but also a permanent testimonial to a community-minded couple with the vision and capacity to inspire an entire village.

The Axtons have shown us the remarkable results that cooperation and selflessness can achieve. How healthy for Antioch if we decide to replicate their example regularly.

Demos call challenge 'witch hunt' by GOP

"Harassment," "witch hunt" and "arrogance" are words being used by county Democratic Party Chairman Terry Link of Republican efforts to have three Democratic candidates removed from the November ballot.

The three Democrats are:

* James Brophy of Ingleside, candidate for coroner against incumbent Barbara Richardson of Warren Twp.

* Michael Corn of Gurnee running for state representative in the 61st Dist. against Republican nominee Andrea Moore of Libertyville.

* Grant Farrell of Antioch, candidate for state representative in the 62nd Dist. against incumbent Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa). Churchill is also the county Republican Party chairman.

Brophy's place on the ballot is being heard by the Lake County Elections Commission. An initial hearing last week was delayed until Friday, June 5.

The state Elections Commission will hear those running for state office.

Challenging Brophy's candidacy on the grounds he is a Republican is Antioch Twp. Republican precinct committeeman Timothy Osmond. Brophy has served as a Republican precinct committeeman in Grant Twp. for all but two years in the last 20.

Challenging Corn's place on the ballot is Dawn Miller of Mundelein. She is a member of the Mundelein school board and mother of Valery Miller-Gallagher, director of the Republican party office in Libertyville.

The Farrell challenge comes from William Burns of Lindenhurst, a Republican party leader in Lake Villa Twp.

"Legally, all of the filings were legal," said Link of a party caucus in May to select candidates for uncontested vacancies in the March primary. "The Democrats have done nothing wrong except challenge the two-party system in Lake County.

"Let the voters decide," Link continued, "not the Republican party. This is just plain arrogance by Churchill and his people. It is harassment, a witch hunt where nothing will be found."

"We've put up good, qualified people which, I think, the Republicans are afraid to face," Link said.

Brophy was even more outspoken. "If the Republicans don't like what I am doing, they can censure me, as they did in the past," he said of three previous reprimands for supporting Democratic candidates. "But don't waste tax dollars trying to do it at the county level when this is a party matter."

Brophy said he told the Democrats he was and always will be a Republican, although he would like to become coroner. "The Democrats accepted me on that basis," he said. "I plead guilty to being a Republican. If that is a crime, let them go ahead and punish me."

"My credentials are longer than those of the party chairman," Brophy said of Churchill, who bolted the Republicans in 1980 to support the aborted third-party campaign of Rockford presidential candidate John Anderson.

Anderson ran as a third-party candidate that year.

Brophy has petitioned to have the Waukegan hearings dismissed, saying the challenge to his candidacy should be resolved by the party.

Turning his attention to the coroner's campaign, Brophy said he is preparing to unleash a barrage of charges.

These range from "robbing bodies," to picking up bodies that are not identified as being dead, destroying or losing evidence from autopsies plus political hirings and firings of staff members he claims has cost "the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Before the campaign gets too far underway Brophy said his documented information will be presented to the state's attorney's office along with a request for a full-scale investigation.

Antioch duo rallies, wins match at state tournament

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When this tennis season started, Antioch High Coach Frank Cittadino was not penciling in the names of Scott Cittadino and Adam Lips.

"We saw the talent in the conference and the sectional and we thought the best way to get two people to the state finals would be through doubles," Coach Cittadino said.

Scott Cittadino and Lips made steady progress through the year and capped off their season with a win in the state tournament. Antioch's state qualifying team lost to a Glenbrook South team 6-2, 6-2; beat a Jacksonville team 6-1, 5-7, 7-5 and lost to Crystal Lake South team 6-3, 6-2.

The duo had won the North Suburban Conference consolation bracket. "They came on at the right time," Coach Cittadino said.

At state, it was a matter of pride which carried Antioch to the third-set win and the victory over Jacksonville. "They got some pride in themselves and dug down inside and played a much better third set," Coach Cittadino said.

The South match was a close one. "There are no ads in state tennis, so when a game reaches deuce, it is a sudden-death situation. Many of the games reached that point," Coach Cittadino said.

Coach Cittadino said a match against Grant was a key for the Antioch duo. "I had some mixed feelings (he teaches at Grant), but that win was against a real good doubles team and that gave them confidence to beat a good team," he said.

Scott Cittadino will be lost to graduation next year, but Lips returns. Other key seniors back are Greg Gan-tar in doubles; Jeff Lutgen, who was 5-9 at number one singles; Keith Hanson at singles and Craig Regaier at doubles.

"Jeff battles every kids he plays. He runs down balls and dives for them. He is a real blue collar tennis player. He is a hustler," Coach Cittadino said of Lutgen.

Coach Cittadino may be making more trips to Macomb next year as Scott will join his older brother Erick on the team. Western was 25-2 and conference champs last year. Erick was 10-1 in singles play.

Barb and Bill Spigner, owners of Hawthorn Lanes in Vernon Hills, look over racks of bowling balls in the sports center. The bowling alley has been operating for three years now and is hosting PBA events this summer.

Bill Spigner, owner of Hawthorn Lanes in Vernon Hills, prepares to drill a bowling ball. Spigner is a self-taught bowler who spent 13 years on the Professional Bowlers Tour.

Every day a '300' for bowling center operator

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When Bill Spigner was growing up in Hamden, Conn., his friends were playing basketball or baseball after school.

Spigner, though, had other interests. He would head down to the local bowling alley for a few games, or maybe work in a pro shop.

"I started bowling when I was 13-years-old. I would watch the bowlers on TV. I was pretty much self-taught," Spigner said.

Today, Spigner is the teacher as he gives lessons, writes instructional articles for bowling publications and runs Hawthorn Lanes with his wife Barb.

Spigner was on the professional bowlers tour for 13 years, winning 10 titles. He broke in during the early 1970s but his first title did not come right away.

"My first tournament win was in 1977 in Kranston, Rhode Island. All my friends, family and business associates from out East were there. I won $6,000," Spigner said.

The Vernon Hills resident appreciates what the appeal of the sport of bowling is. "Bowling has always been something to do with the family. The adults, kids and grandparents can all come out and bowl. It is a lifetime sport," Spigner said.

There is only a handful of bowlers rolling the ball down the alley this sunny Thursday afternoon. In a few hours, the place will be packed. "By 7 p.m. our leagues start and all 40 lanes will be used," Barb Spigner said.

Barb has a background in national bowling circles as she was promotions director for Brunswick Corp. when she met Bill.

Hawthorn Lanes was host to a PBA regional tour event Memorial Day weekend and will be hosting other PBA events Aug. 20-23.

Registration in youth leagues at the three-year-old center is up by 50 over last year, up to 300. The leagues begin early, with four-year-olds using the "bumpers", preventing gutter balls. "The main thing is they can learn the fundamentals of delivering the ball at an early age," Spigner said.

Spigner, when he was not a professional bowler, was running sports stores and giving lessons. Besides the 40 lanes complete with computerized scorekeeping, the center features the Cafe 300 restaurant run by Navy veterans Vito Arjona and Sam Dent and a lounge area.

The technology of bowling has changed greatly over the last decade. Polyester balls are used more frequently. A dozen years ago, the Eurothane ball was the latest craze.

"For a male bowler with an average of 170, most will have two bowling balls. When we had the (PBA regional) tour here last weekend, most players brought eight. Some travel with 20 to 24 bowling balls. They want to be ready for anything," Spigner said.

Even the least expensive bowling balls are not cheap, costing $46 to $150. "Most competitive bowlers will spend $75 to $150," Spigner said.

Spigner has about 10 bowling balls laying on the floor of his pro shop this day. His sons, Robby, age 10 and Jim, age five, do not have that many bowling balls but have already achieved bowling success.

Robby, who started bowling when he was three-years-old, had a 247 game last year in a junior league, the second highest score for his age nationally.

Maybe he someday will choose to carry on the family business.

Seven Lake County companies commit to pollution prevention

Seven companies in Lake County are participating in federal pollution prevention programs.

Taking the initiative to reduce emissions of 17 toxic chemical by 33 percent by December and reduce them by 50 percent by the end of 1995 are Abbott Laboratories, IMC Fertilizer Group, Inc.; Imcera Group, Inc.; Motorola, Inc., and Sara Lee Corp. The regional program is handled by the Environmental Sciences Division of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Abbott Laboratories is also participating in the USEPA's Green Lights program as are Baxter Healthcare Corp. and Grainger. The plan encourages the use of energy-efficient lighting equipment to reduce pollution. The Air and Radiation Division directs the program for the USEPA's six-state regional where the program is being piloted. Included are Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

EPA officials approached the largest companies in the country to encourage their participation in the programs. "Some companies have committed to more ambitious goals than we had set out. A few have even set at 100 percent reduction goal," said William Sanders, director of the Environmental Sciences Division.

"In the long run, this program is going to save money for companies that participate," said David Kee, director of the USEPA's air and radiation division. "More important, Green Lights will benefit everyone because it means less pollution."

USEPA officials estimate in the six-state area, the effort will reduce carbon monoxide emissions by 700,000 million tons per year; sulfur dioxide emissions by 5,000 tons per year; and nitrogen oxides by 3,000 tons per year.

Carbon dioxide is one of the primary greenhouse gases that contribute to global warming. Sulfur dioxide emissions contribute to the acid rain problem and nitrogen oxides also are associated with acid rain as well as formation of smog.

Other pollutants, such as boiler ash, scrubber waste, acidic drainage, coal mine waste, radioactive waste and natural gas will also be reduced by participation in the program.

To date, 267 companies have committed to the 33/50 program in the region: 66 in Illinois. Green Lights commitments have come from 79 organizations in the region, with 32 representing Illinois.

Protect against Lyme Disease

"Ask Dr. K" c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268 Grayslake, IL 60030

Q. What is lyme disease and how is it spread?

A. Lyme disease is a bacterial infection which is usually associated with the bites of some ticks. Caused by an organism called a spirochete, the disease is spread by infected ticks that live in and near wooded areas, tall grass and brush. These ticks lead a parasitic life, feeding on a variety of mammals, including deer, mice and even people.

Q. What kinds of ticks carry the lyme disease?

A. Any tick can carry the lyme disease bacteria, which emphasizes the importance of preventive tick control in your yard and garden. The most likely tick to carry the lyme disease is the deer tick. Slightly larger than a mite, an adult deer tick has an oval non-segmented body with a movable head through which it draws blood from warm-blooded brushy and grassy animals.

Q. What preventive measures can an individual take against lyme disease?

A. Nobody can guarantee complete protection from tick bites, but there are precautions you can take in tick-infested areas.

Chemically treat around your home and yard with an effective tick deterrent, such as Spectracide Lawn and Garden Insect Control. Trim tall grass and weeds. Wear a long-sleeve shirt, tuck pants into boots or socks. Use an insect or tick repellent containing diethyl toluamide (Deet).

Check yourself for ticks. If a tick is found, remove it gently with fine-tipped tweezers. Make a note of the geographical area, date and time of bite. Save the tick in alcohol; if any symptoms of lyme disease develop, take the tick with you when you visit your physician.

Q. What at the symptoms of lyme disease?

A. The most typical cases can start with a rash that looks like a red bull's eye that generally appears at the site of the bite days or weeks later. Other symptoms can be fever, aching muscles or joints and general malaise. Warning signs in children are irritability, fever, stiff neck or backache, one-sided facial paralysis, depression and poor memory. Arthritic symptoms can occur and persist for months or even years. Lyme disease is usually not fatal, but it can be debilitating, emotionally as well as physically.

Q. Where is lyme disease found?

A. Lyme disease is most likely to be contracted in wooded areas of the Northeast and Middle Atlantic states, much of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and coastal areas of California, Washington and Oregon. However, the disease seems to be spreading rapidly, with 43 states reporting cases in 1989.

Q. When is the peak season for ticks?

A. Ticks are active from spring until freezing weather sends them into the ground.

DOG Facts & Fancies

Helpful Advice From
The American Kennel Club

Be A Good Neighbor

Being a good neighbor is part of being a responsible dog owner. Here are some doggie manners to help your pet be a welcome member of the neighborhood.

Have your dog greet people calmly. Even small breeds can accidentally hurt or scare someone by jumping on them. Elderly people and children can be easily knocked down. A quiet dog is a better neighbor than a noisy one.

Your pet need not be completely silent, but he shouldn't bark continuously all day or night without reason.

Remember to supervise those who play with your dog. Children may injure or frighten your pet without meaning to. Show them the proper way to treat a dog.

Local animal laws are there to protect your pet as well as those around him. Know yours and follow them. Licensed, vaccinated dogs are safer, healthier ones. By walking your dog on a leash under your control, you can keep him out of the trouble he may encounter if you let him roam alone. Plus, it's good exercise for both of you!

Formal obedience training can improve your control of your dog and his manners. Local dog clubs recognized by the American Kennel Club offer various obedience courses. For more information on obedience training, write to the Obedience Department, The American Kennel Club, 51 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

CPR could help save your pet

CPR is a technique that combines artificial respiration and heart massage to revive human heart attack victims. Pet owners often have difficulty handling their pet when it loses consciousness, but CPR should work. The animal version of CPR can be used when a pet loses consciousness due to cardiac arrest, injury, trauma, or smoke inhalation, for example:

When a pet has heart failure, the owner should avoid three reactions.

1. Do not panic. It is up to you to convey a sense of calm not only to your animal, but also to those around you.

2. Do not waste time. Make immediate arrangements to transfer the animal to a nearby veterinary hospital.

3. Do not handle the pet unnecessarily. Administer first aid or CPR to avoid further injury and to save its life.

Keep the animal comfortable, stable and calm. Observe and evaluate the situation constantly, talking to your pet slowly as you would talk to a child. Approach an injured animal slowly and carefully, because even a pet with absolute trust and confidence in you may attempt to bite or scratch when this is the only way to know how to communicate fear and apprehension.

The first step in CPR is to restrain the animal by muzzling a dog or wrapping a cat in a towel or blanket. Next, use a blunt instrument or cloth to clear the animal's mouth of foreign objects, blood, or mucus. Never use your fingers for this procedure because the animal may bite them.

Inflate the lungs by blowing short breaths into the animal's nose, not mouth, until the chest expands. You may use a handkerchief if your prefer.

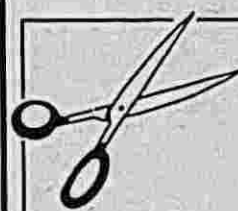

The air passageway through an animal's nose is better than the mouth because it creates a closed system which enables the lungs to expand. Blow 15 times per minute. At the same time, apply heart massage with your free hand about 60 to 80 times per minute.

There is no time limit for applying CPR. The technique may be used until the animal begins breathing and the heart is beating or until the owner is certain that the patient is beyond help with no chance of survival.

But it's the food that keeps them coming back, and some new specials are being offered. Complete baked haddock and butt steak dinners, as well as California cold plates and oriental stir-fried dishes are ready for the tasting.

A long-standing favorite at The In-Laws is the sumptuous salad bar. It's loaded with over 30 light, fresh and healthful offerings, including two hot soups, bagels, pasta salads and much more. It's all you can eat for just $3.95. The salad bar is only $2.55 when purchased with a sandwich and is included with dinner selections.

The folks at The In-Laws have put an added emphasis on breakfast, and their delicious morning repast is available seven days a week.

Tuesdays and Thursdays, all-you-can-eat cheese and sausage pizza is just $3.95. Wednesdays, it's all the spaghetti you can handle for $3.95. Saturday's featured fare is all-you-can-eat jumbo shrimp for $9.95

Full-dinner favorites include several varieties of fresh fish, ribs (prepared in a homemade honey sauce), pork chops, a 16-ounce T-bone, clam strips, deep-fried scallops, a honey chicken platter and Veal Parmesan.

Pizza — thin, double-decker and pan — is a specialty of the house. Cheese-and-sausage pizza is always available by the slice.

Wine to go with any meal and a good collection of beers on tap are available from the full-stocked lounge, which is open until 2 a.m. on weekends.

Safe Boating Week on tap

National Safe Boating Week, June 7-13, is sponsored by the National Safe Boating Council Inc. and is the annual media event that launches the recreational boating season in the U.S.

The week starts the traditional boating season and introduces a year-long media campaign to provide boaters with more information about their sport.

During the week, members of the council — the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadrons, State Boating Law Administrators, the Army Corps of Engineers, the American Red Cross and other groups — will provide extensive media coverage, local exhibits and special programs on safe boating, based on this year's theme, "Boat Smart."

To cap off the week, Division IV of the Coast Guard Auxiliary will hold the annual Blessing of the Fleet Saturday, June 13. The event will begin at 10 a.m. with the crowning of the Queen of Safe Boating Week at Watts Marina on Pistakee Lake. The festivities will then move to near Cedar Island on Meyers Bay for the traditional non-denominational blessing of boats by the clergy. Following the ceremonies, refreshments will be available at Watts Marina for some picnic fun.

NAC: Going strong after 100 years

1892 was an exciting year. Benjamin Harrison was in the White House. Deadly labor disputes wreaked havoc upon the land. Ellis Island opened and would process 20 million immigrants over the next 62 years. Grounds for the $28-million World's Columbian Exposition were dedicated in Chicago. James J. Corbett beat John L. Sullivan in the first heavyweight championship fought with padded gloves. American vocalist Lottie Collins created an international hit, "Ta-ra-rabom-der-é." In Augusta, Ga., twice as many ballots were cast as there were registered voters. The first escalator was patented in New York, and the first automatic telephone switchboard went into operation in La Porte, Ind.

It was the same year a small group of young men in Chicago yearned for a place where they could gather, socialize and promote and enjoy athletics after a hard day's work.

Thus, the National Athletic Club (NAC) was born May 27, 1892. Little did these men know their efforts would withstand the test of time.

NAC, now based in Fox Lake, is celebrating its 100th anniversary this summer, and several special events are on tap.

Bill Lyons, a 10-year member and president of NAC for the last six years, said the creators of the club would be proud.

"I think they'd be proud of what we're doing," Lyons said. "We're keeping the tradition. We've got a set of bylaws they wrote, and we're sticking by them."

Don Stedwell, a 40-year member sits on the board of directors.

"I have a lot of respect for the people who started it," Stedwell said. "They left it for us, and we're trying to leave it for somebody in the future."

During the early years, the club met in a small room at the corner of Fisk and 20th. At first, only single men between 18 and 25 were allowed membership. Due to the popularity of the club, the bylaws were changed to include young married men.

Membership continued to grow, and in 1907, a new two-story brick clubhouse was erected at 1821 Center Ave. (now Racine Avenue). The building included a reception room, offices, a gymnasium and billiard room. It was everything the members needed for their pursuit of progress, good fellowship and physical fitness.

But the members didn't say, "It doesn't get any better than this." They still longed for a place in the country, where hunting and fishing were readily available. A small place near Cary was rented for about 10 years before the club turned its interest toward the Fox Lake area.

NAC rented a group of cottages in Ingleside for three years before building a grand three-story house overlooking Fox Lake on Lippincott Lane in 1919. The lake house had all the amenities of a resort and sleeping quarters for 100 members. An ice house was added to keep the day's catch chilled.

The club maintained its clubhouse in Chicago until the mid 1970s. The lake house was torn down in 1990, but a second venerable building on the same property now serves as an inviting, rustic, lodge-style clubhouse.

Lyons said changing times and rising costs forced the club to abbreviate its holdings and operations.

"We had to make a choice," Lyons said. "The club owned quite a bit of prop-

Gibson, Glover magic repeats

A few years ago the epitome of cop-buddy combinations, in the persons of Mel Gibson and Danny Glover, successfully debuted in the first of three "Lethal Weapon" epics, the grandfather on the "Lethal Weapon" family tree.

Just as "Lethal Weapon 2" was hailed as one of the few sequels as good as the parent film, so the grandchild, "Lethal Weapon 3," is up to the same sock 'em, rock 'em tongue and cheek mayhem standards.

The action in this one seems to be at warp speed with Gibson getting glibber and looser by the film as the duo gets into bigger and better chase scenes and more narrowly escape extravagant explosions.

With Glover closing in on a retirement date, Messrs. Riggs and Murtaugh get involved with a bad ex-cop, played by Stuart Wilson, and a female cop, aptly played by Rene Russo.

Messrs. Gibson, Glover

She thinks they're on the take, so the fun begins, but she too learns to love our heroes. One of our favorites, Joe Pesci, who is everywhere there is a camera, comes along for the ride again, armed with several laugh grenades.

There's nothing really new here except for a superb chase scene that heads the wrong way down an interstate highway, some colossal fireworks and some epochal crashes.

If you loved the grandfather, and haven't gotten tired of his antics, you'll like the grandchild, but if the family traits have begun to bore you and you're looking for newer and less-traveled roads, you can wait for the video version, or just ignore No. 3 altogether.

We are still entertained by the Gibson-Glover chemistry and Richard Donner's special effects have yet to wear out their welcome in our book.

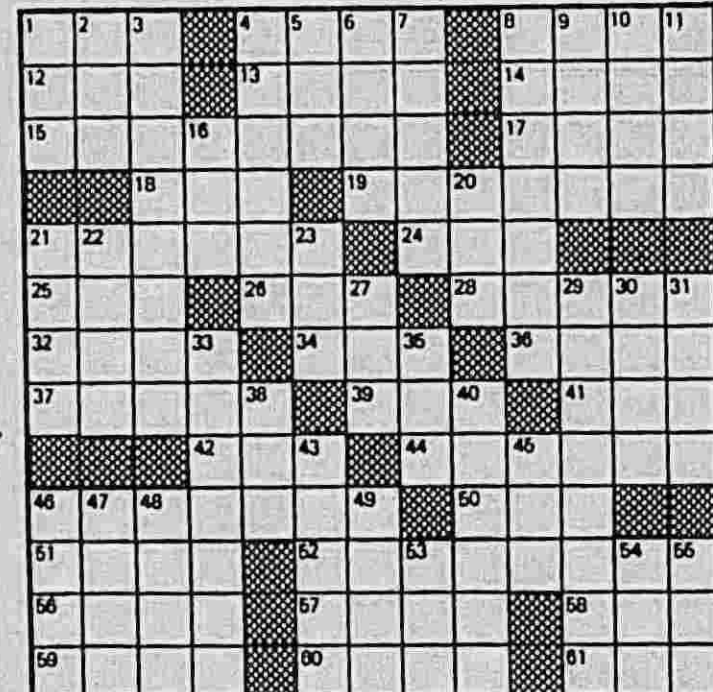

The grandfather and son walked away with a five out of five-star rating from this reviewer, but the antecedent receives a slightly lower 4.5 out of five-star rating simply because, even to this devoted "Lethal Weapon" buff, a little of the original shine has worn off. See it. It bodes to be one of the best of the big warm-weather blockbusters.

Kurtis finds tranquility here

Interview

Bill Kurtis has been news anchor/reporter for WBBM-TV/Channel 2 News for the past 19 years. In addition to his duties at Channel 2, Bill (with the help of star producers) produces documentary programs for PBS which make up "The New Explorers" series. His quality work in television news and documentary has earned him national and local Emmy Awards, The George Foster Peabody Award, DuPont Columbia Award and other awards too numerous to name. Recently he and his longtime companion, Donna LaPiatra purchased a home in Mettawa in hopes of finding some serenity and refuge from the hustle and bustle of a busy travel schedule and hectic pace of television news and documentary work.

CURRENT PROJECT: Working on a documentary for "The New Explorers."

I floated down the Rio Roosevelt River in Brazil retracing Teddy Roosevelt's steps with a group of scientists and measuring the changes in the river. Also working on another documentary on the ozone layer.

HOBBIES: Photography and gardening.

CURRENTLY READING: The Autobiography of Teddy Roosevelt.

FAVORITE MUSIC: Frank Sinatra and Count Basie. I'm a product of the 50's.

BEST PART OF LIVING IN LAKE COUNTY: The peacefulness and tranquillity, the closeness with nature and I hope that doesn't change with the current developments happening in the area. It gives us a great break from the city.

WHAT DO YOU DO FOR FUN: Nothing. We're always doing something, and my travel schedule is so hectic, but that to me is fun so it's a cross between all my travels and doing nothing. My work is fun to me.

FAVORITE LAKE COUNTY RESTAURANT: The Pyrneese and Best Hunan in Vernon Hills.

HOW DO OTHERS DESCRIBE YOU: Full of energy and enjoys his work.

WATCH MUCH TELEVISION: Not really, I watch a lot of PBS and other documentaries.

FAVORITE SHOW: "The New Explorers" on PBS.

DO YOU LIVE BY ANY RULES: Not really. Generally, I tend to do things I enjoy. If I am interested in it I do it. That's kind of a loose life style but that's how I live, and success follows.

WHAT MOTIVATES YOU: Curiosity. It serves in journalism and in my documentary work.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BILL KURTIS TODAY AND TEN YEARS AGO: Gray hair. Seriously though, my world has broadened, it has become global and I have the same energy and love of my work. I'm more confident and I am still an optimist.

FAVORITE MOVIE THIS YEAR: JFK

BEST ADVICE YOU'VE RECEIVED: Don't go to New York (in 1982 to anchor the "CBS Morning News.") You can see I didn't listen.

WHAT'S IN YOUR FUTURE: More of the same.—by KAREN STANWICK WANDS

'This old man came rolling home'

Critic's Choice

What makes a father-son relationship tick isn't the easiest subject to explore, but James Sherman's new comedy "This Old Man Came Rolling Home," makes a fair stab at it.

As presented at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater, it's full of corny male bonding, including a wrestling scene, and a lot of high-falutin' observations on religion, parenting and career aspirations.

Although it never really rises to ethereal heights, the play also includes a respectable bit of insightfulness on two staples—love and commitment.

Mitch Litrofsky gives an amiable performance as Benjamin, the insecure mid-30s Yuppie who must deal with impending fatherhood, both his own and that of his widowed father. Ultimately, he had to revise the rigid image of his dad after discovering that the freedom his parent gave "was to help you find your own way. And you thought I didn't care."

Plucky Byrne Piven comes on strong as Benjamin's father Nate, a retired judge who had found his own freedom with a modern 28-year-old California flower child soon to give birth to his child.

Kathryn Jaeck also is well cast as Ben's gynecologist girlfriend.

"This Old Man" will run through July 5. For ticket information call (312)871-3000.—by TOM WIFOM

Dungeons in the Bahamas?

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

It doesn't happen too often in Nassau, but you can occasionally experience a rainy day. It's then that we must look for activities that don't involve sun and sand. A visit to Fort Charlotte, a few minutes from downtown, may be just the ticket.

Built in 1789, this English fort boasts a real 18th century dungeon complete with stretching racks and other instruments of "interrogation."

A guide will meet you at the gate for your tour. The cost fit my budget perfectly, as it was free! A tip is appreciated, though.

The underground passages and dungeon were hewn by slaves out of solid rock and took over two years to complete. It is everything you would expect in a dungeon. It's dark, damp and even supplied with dummies for prisoners and interrogators.

The rest of the fort is quite interesting, also. From the ramparts you get an excellent view of the harbor which it was built to guard. It's cannons could fire up to two miles out to sea.

The dry moat surrounding the fort was not filled with water, but rather corn bush. A bridge once led to the powder magazine, which was kept separate in case of explosion.

There is even some 19th century graffiti on the fort's walls. One artist even signed his picture of a ship.

For the energetic, Fort Charlotte is only a 15-minute walk from downtown Nassau. Otherwise, most cab drivers will take you there and wait for you to complete your tour.

A couple of other nearby forts include Fort Fincastle on Bennet's Hill to protect the town of Nassau. On the other end of the harbor is Fort Montagu, the only one to see action.

erty at one time. It owned most of the subdivision around here."

NAC claimed several big-name athletes as members over the years, including Jack Root, world light-heavyweight champ, and St. Louis Cardinals baseball player Ed Holly. Lyons himself was Pacific Fleet light-heavyweight champion in the 1950s.

The club also sponsored various sports teams during the past century.

At its peak, NAC had close to 250 members. Today, the roll call is for 76.

For many years, members were of Bohemian (western Czechoslovakia) heritage, but that's changed.

"That changed about 1958, when we started letting in all nationalities," Stedwell said.

One thing that has withstood changing notions, however, is the club's strict rule against admitting women as members. Lyons said he received a query on the subject from a Chicago newspaper a couple of years ago.

"I told them women aren't interested in our activities — hunting, fishing, socializing. I told them we never had any problems with it."

While women can't be members, families are welcome at the clubhouse for various functions. The 100-year-old rule is that women and children are not allowed to stay overnight. A brief detour is the annual August Women Only Day.

Membership is no easy row to hoe for men. A prospective member has to be recommended by two members, and those two members are then responsible for the new member's conduct.

"A lot of members have passed away, but we're in no hurry to expand," Lyons said.

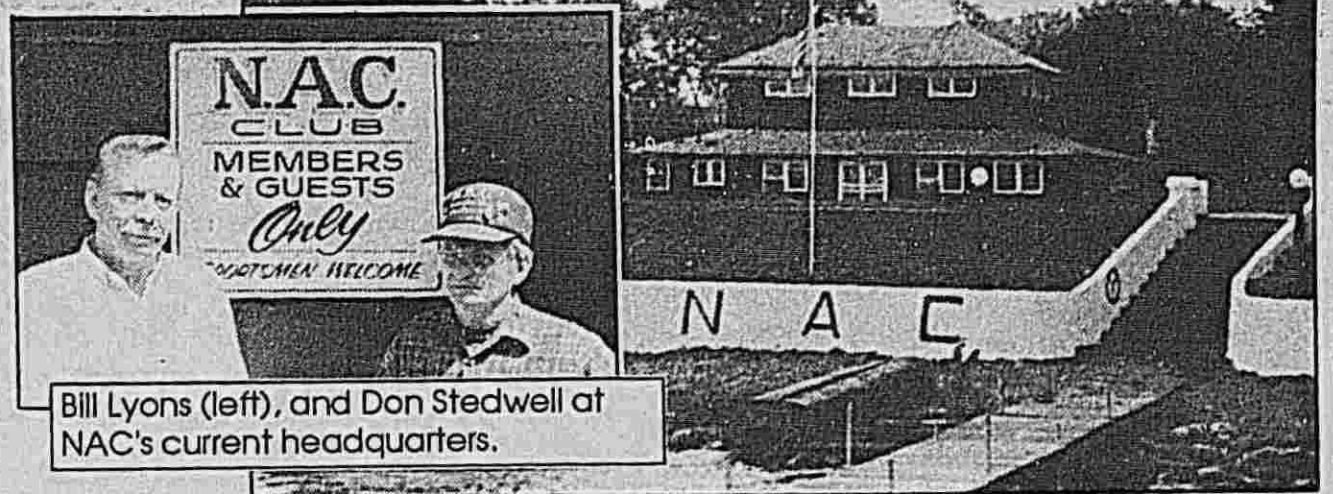

On occasion, membership has been revoked for not adhering to the club's code of conduct. Prospective members are made aware of what's expected of them.

"We have thrown people out for breaking the rules," Lyons said. "That's a hard line, but it's got to be. Otherwise, you don't have a club."

In addition to Stedwell, seven others have been club members for 40 years or more. Frank Tomec heads the list at 55 years. Others include George Behensky, Joseph Benak, Arthur Culick, William Kallal, Robert Pitner and Frank Vondrak.

Although new blood is being pumped into NAC, the pulse is planned.

"We have younger blood coming in to keep it rolling, but we're not pushing it," Lyons said.

"We keep a little more to ourselves now to protect what we have," Lyons continued. "You walk in here and you know everybody and you feel comfortable. Places like that are fewer and far between these days."

But NAC members are hardly isolationists when it comes to civic duty.

"When we get the opportunity to do something local, we do our share," Lyons said.

NAC will hold an open house this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, June 6-7. The festivities will start at 10 a.m. each day. Prizes and raffles will be the order of the day. Food and refreshments will be available.

The club will hold a kids fishing derby

June 13 from 9:30 a.m. until noon. Kids will compete at no charge, and trophies and ribbons will be awarded.

NAC will serve a free dinner to area senior citizens June 20 at 5 p.m.

The club will be honored this year by the Illinois State Historical Society and has already received a letter of commendation from Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

"It's offered an exclusive area to bring families and friends and have a nice place going," Lyons said. "They know what to expect. We take care of our own. The people you meet here are special."

"I think it's the people I got to know," Stedwell offered. "So many members I knew who have passed away really meant a lot to me."

Indian woman encourages creativity in a passerby

'Annie'

by ELLEN RUTLIN
Lakeland Newspapers

When the weather is warm and dry, she sits in front of the store to welcome residents and visitors to Main St. Wauconda.

During the last year, the age-old smile of the Indian woman in the window of Annie's Antiques has become a familiar face that all look for as they pass by her window.

Seated in a sturdy old rocker, 'Annie,' keeps watch over the older business area of Wauconda day and night. Many, young and old, wave to her as they pass and see her as something more than a statue in the window.

The sight of 'Annie' inspired a passing Barrington resident to compose a few lines of what the middle-aged Indian statue observes, feels and dreams as she watches her world through a plate glass window.

"I could not help but notice how real she seemed," said Francesca Muscarello. "When we drove by the gentleman I was with waved to her, it dawned on me how people look upon (her) as though (she) were real."

On a piece of scratch paper, Muscarello composed the following lines while riding in the car.

—The wind blows strong and my skirt rises high above my knees

—I cannot seem to hold my skirt down, I feel so exposed and helpless

—My eyes watch each car that passes by and the eyes within watch me too

—They sometimes wave and I find that I cannot raise my hand to acknowledge their friendly gesture

—Passersby touch me, oh

so gently, and children play with the beads on my moccasins and the bangles around my neck

—My eyes hold steadfast and my smile never varies. I so wish that I could speak but one word in gratitude for their attention.

—I wonder if my dark braided hair is still in tact from the elements of nature. And if my face is still as youthful as it once was —If only I could read, if only I could speak and oh, if only I could hear.

—How often I dream of the not knowing and the wanting to know.

—The sun is now beginning to set and the street is suddenly becoming void of people passing to and fro

—A loneliness begins to come over me and the chill of the mid-day air encompasses me

—Suddenly, as always at this time of day, a strong, but tender arm surrounds my waist and very cautiously raises me up from the position in which I stand and just as cautiously, I am placed in a lovely chair

—I feel the warmth of the indoors and my chair is padded and comfortable. My view is a large window before me and through that window I watch dusk fade into night.

—Evening strollers peek in at me and a wink of the eye is often times their salutation.

—They are familiar with me and I with them and they become my evening company and help to while away the hours.

—Suddenly the familiar click of the lights going on illuminates the sign above the window

Mommy,
everytime I think about
Dad's death I want to cry.
You won't leave me, too,
will you?

The death of a parent can be very upsetting to a child. Besides feeling sad and lonely, many children feel very insecure. The safe environment that the family unit provides has been destroyed and often children don't know what to expect next. Children need a lot of reassurance and love when a parent dies. They should be allowed to cry and to express their feelings. Children should be allowed to share in ceremonies for deceased parents, if they wish. While the gap created by death won't ever completely close, love and understanding will help bring a family closer together.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: For the past 4 years I have been employed as a cashier in a retail store. I would like to make a change to a more corporate environment with benefits. Because of a lack of office skills, could you suggest an approach I might take? D.P.

A: With the amount of cashiering experience and stability you have had, you would be a natural fit in a Bank Teller position. This will allow you to build on your cash handling and customer service skills. Banks typically offer outstanding benefits to their employees. Good Luck.

Q: While practicing my interviewing techniques for an upcoming interview it was told to me by a friend that I had poor eye contact. I do get nervous during an interview, is direct eye contact very important? G.R.

A: Eye contact during an interview, no matter how nervous you may be, is very important. To look a person straight in the eye develops a sense of interest and trust. If your eyes wander around the room, you rapidly lose the attention of the interviewer, who may be of the impression that you are not interested in the position.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030

Growth is still dirty word, says Graham

Growth does not pay its own way. That is a recurring refrain of former Libertyville Twp. supervisor and County Board member F. T. "Mike" Graham.

For years he has tried to convince anyone who would listen that development in Lake County is being subsidized by taxpayers.

His newest target is the Central Lake County Joint Action Water Agency. Under its auspices, 13 communities in central and west Lake County began receiving water from Lake Michigan in May. As a new, separate taxing agency, it levies .135 per $100 of assessed valuation. On a $130,000 home, this means $130 more per year in taxes, Graham said. In addition, residents of the 13 communities that make up the water agency, are paying higher water bills.

Owners of farmland in the water district pay far less taxes, one only 15 cents per acre. Graham said, because the land is classified differently.

"With an unlimited supply of Lake Michigan water this land has a potential value of $10,000 to $30,000 an acre," Graham said. When this land is developed, there is an immediate demand for taxpayer supported services ranging from sewers, police and fire to new classrooms. Costs skyrocket, taxes go up, Graham said.

The average 10 percent in impact fees paid by developers does not begin to cover the cost of the new services, Graham said. He believes, as do some planners, the developer's share should be more like 53 percent. This would cover all costs for providing police and fire protection, sewers, schools and new or better highways.

"In effect, the tax-paying public is subsidizing a massive public works program that enriches developers and the farmers who sold the land," Graham said.

If developers pay more of their fair share costs associated with new homes and apartments, suburban sprawl will be stemmed, Graham said.

With developers paying less than their share for new services, taxes escalate. There never seems to be enough money to provide the needed infrastructure. Nor will there be enough for its replacement at some point in the future, Graham said.

Equally important, there is no money to stem the decay of established cities.

"In Lake County we are repeating the same mistakes that have been made in hundreds of counties, cities, village and towns across the land, mostly since World War II," Graham said. "We have allowed mature cities to decay while encouraging new development on fertile farmland."

In Lake County, he notes, this has doubled the total assessed valuation from $4.2 billion in 1985 to $8.1 billion in 1991. Despite this new wealth, taxes have risen 30 percent.

"Pro-development is synonymous with pro-tax," Graham continued. "This has been proven in study after study and each year when property tax bills are received."

"When I served on the County Board and anyone suggested curbing development, preserving farmland or open space and demanding development pay its own way through total impact fees, they were labeled as anti-growth and anti-progress," Graham recalled.

Even professional planners like those at the Northern Illinois Planning Comm. (NIPC) are at fault, the one-time county figure said.

"Like lawyers, they often side with whomever is paying them," Graham said of annual fees paid by the county, villages and cities to support this agency. "NIPC must go hat-in-hand asking for funds from the same elected officials who often cause the problems of ill-planned developments. NIPC becomes a master at compromise instead of masters of professional planning."

"The result is soaring taxes, traffic congestion and the loss of valuable farmland," Graham said. "Then, we have government by crisis."

He advocates a separate, independent source of funding for NIPC.

Kratz wins fifth in row

Frank Filsko of Des Plaines scored his first 25-lap winged sprint feature of the season on May 30 at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway in Wilmot, Wis. Wheatland's Joe Graumenz captured his first 20-lap modified main since 1985. Pointleader Dennis Kratz of Antioch continued unstopable in sportsman action as he won his fifth 20-lap main event and his fifth heat to close out the month of May a perfect ten for ten in races competed in and won.

Dennis Spitz took the early lead of the sprint main on a fast, tacky track, but hooked sideways coming out of turn two on the fourth lap with Larry Hillerud slicing to the inside to take the lead. Filsko worked his Service Truck and Trailer/Valvoline Oil/Sinclair Racing Engine Assembly sprinter in front on lap 11 by cutting to the inside as Filsko and Hillerud went wing to wing down the front straightaway as they worked through lapped traffic. One lap later, the race was momentarily fed flagged when Dale Peterson and Mike Frost tangled on the backstretch with Frost rolling his mount sideways. Frost was uninjured. On the restart, Filsko pulled away to become the fourth different feature winner of the season, Hillerud, Jim Moulis, defending champion Bob Peterson and Al Schmidt completed the top five. "The car was hooked up," said a beaming Filsko in victory lane. "It's not often some of us drivers make it to victory lane and tonight, I have to thank one of my crew who isn't here because he's home sick, Reed Sinclair, who puts my engines together. Dave Moulis (pointleader) has been tough, but Dave, we're coming."

It was a record night for the sprints as Neosho's Gib Wiser turned the first lap under 14 seconds in the history of the track with a :13.990 clocking, breaking the mark of :14.026 set by Dave Blaney of Cortland, Ohio during last year's Wilmot Open Sprints. "We found the speed, but the runs weren't actually as smooth as I would've liked," admitted Wiser. "If the track stays in this kind of shape, who knows what'll happen during the rest of the season."

Wiser's happiness was short lived as on the fourth heat start, the four-time

Wilmot champion came together with another car at the drop of the green and flipped hard, end over end, along the front straightaway wall. Wiser was not injured, but the car was out for the night.

Joe Kristan of Beach Park scored a record-breaking victory in the 10-lap first sprint heat as he took the checkered flag in a time of 2:24.67, breaking the mark of 2:25.38 set by Dave Hanna on September 1 of last year.

Wilmot Speedway will host Antioch Pizza Shop Night on Saturday, June 6 with sprints, modifieds and sportsman in action.

For entry information, competitors should contact Toft Auto Racing at the track office (708)395-7353. For updates call the trackside racelines at (414)862-2446.

Looking over artifacts

Laura Legus and Jack Sanjuan of Elkhart, Ind. were dressed appropriately for the annual powwow sponsored by the Native American Church of North America, Canada and Mexico. Two-day event featured dancing and was held at Lake County Fairgrounds.

Panthers lose to Cary

"We had had good practices and we came out focused, but we did not play well," Prorok said after his Panthers were eliminated by the Trojans 6-3.

"They had 19 wins and we knew this would not be easy. We wanted to make sure we took care of business, but we made quite a few errors and mental mistakes and they took advantage of it," Prorok said.

Cary took a 5-0 lead before the Panthers got on the scoreboard with two runs in the third. Round Lake chased Cary the rest of the way, but could not catch the home team as the season ended at 19-6.

Matt Love was the winning pitcher for Cary, scattering six Round Lake hits. Scott Volling was two-for-three with an RBI, Adam Tesch two-for-four with an RBI and Jeff Randall two-for-three for the Northwest Suburban Conference champs.

Andy Czyst was a particular thorn in the Round Lake side, with two-for-four and three walks and scored two runs.

Derek Hart gained the win in a 6-2 win over Johnsburg to start the regional. The Skyhawks' season ended at 11-15.

Legion's opener nears

There is a new kid in town when it comes to Dist. 10 Legion play this summer.

The league will field 10 teams in a schedule to begin next week. Joining the league this year is Round Lake. The team, coached by Glen Jewell, has already experienced success in the last 12 months: winning the Northwest Suburban Conference championship this spring and winning the state Colt baseball title.

"We should be good. I hope we can be competitive," Jewell said.

The Round Lake team will be led by Scott Ellenwood at shortstop, Adam Tesch, Clint Rodriguez and Mike Niemczyk. All are all-conference picks for the Panthers.

"Defense and pitching will be the keys," Jewell said. Jewell's teams have won 79 games in two Colt (15 and 16-year-old) league seasons.

Round Lake opens its first Dist. 10 season June 10. The contest at Round Lake High will feature many of the two teams which battled for the NWSC title as Wauconda is the foe.

Other opening nighters in Dist. 10: Libertyville at Lake Zurich; Waukegan at Barrington; Vernon at Highland Park and Mundelein at Gurnee. Game times are 6 p.m.

Colts start strong

Round Lake's Colt baseball team may have a new look, but the results continue to be the same for Coach Glen Jewell's team.

The Colts, state champions last year, started out the Lake County league season with wins over Mundelein and Lake Villa II last week.

"I'm impressed. These guys have never played in a traveling league before," Coach Glen Jewell said.

The Colts downed Mundelein 11-4 before taking Lake Villa II 6-2.

Jewell looks to Chris Kanuf, Ryan and Ray Camirillo, Ryan Bauer as leaders. Bauer has taken charge on the mound so far, gaining a win over Lake Villa II and earning the save against Mundelein.

Mitch Levandowski and Chris Allen are two reserves on last year's team looking to take big strides this summer.

The offense was consistent against Lake Villa II as the Colts scored in four of the six innings. Two runs in the fourth proved key, as Jamie Hoffman had a triple. Knauf and Daniels singled.

Lake Villa II was not without its highlights, either. Jason Solarski and Randy Burgmier had two hits each.

Jewell knows the Lake County teams will be gunning for his defending champs.

Cinderella Sequoits are preparing for sectional

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Michelle Kilarski would be the first to admit it.

"I was scared about it for four days in a row," the Antioch High School pitcher said.

"It" was the importance of pitching in a regional final softball game - after spending most of her days pitching for the sophomore squad.

Kilarski got that assignment allright against Zion-Benton and not only did well, but yes, excelled as the Sequoits won 8-7. The upset advances Antioch to the first round of the Barrington sectional June 6. Antioch faces Hersey in the second game at noon. Mundelein takes on New Trier in a battle of 26-5 teams at 10 a.m.

Kilarski pitched for one and one-third innings against the Zee-Bees at the Warren regional final, walked the first batter but getting the next four as Antioch improved to 12-14.

"Michelle is a little faster pitcher than (starter) Robin Horton. They had runners on base and we needed some big outs," Antioch Coach Judy Smithhisler said.

Antioch trailed 7-5 entering into the sixth inning, but the way this topsey-turvy, error-filled game was going, a two-run lead was not safe.

Kathy Harris singled and Amy Reijoner pinch-ran for her and scored on Zion miscues. One out later Kathy Glenn delivered a big hit, a double which tied the game. April Kilman then delivered the telling blow, a single which scored Glenn for the winning run.

The season had not been an easy one for the Sequoits. The 12th win was their third in a row after not many people gave them a chance to advance to Barrington. After beating Waukegan 12-4 in the regional opener, the Sequoits beat a team they had lost to in the final week of the regular season with a 9-4 win over Round Lake.

"It's been a roller-coaster type of year," Smithhisler said.

The Sequoits had to put up with a lack of a home field and eligibility problems which may have strained lesser teams.

"The kids were really up for it. The seniors had everyone psyched," Smithhisler said. Antioch had lost to Zion-Benton twice.

Senior captain Amy LaFontaine, Kilman and co-MVP Horton and Glenn were all noted for providing leadership.

Antioch gained a 4-1 lead early, with aggressive softball in the second.

Zion-Benton took advantage of Antioch fielding miscues, scoring four runs in two errors and three singles in the fifth.

Antioch countered in their half. Glenn singled and later scored on a perfect suicide squeeze by LaFontaine.

In the Waukegan game, Horton earned the win to even her record at 7-7. The Sequoits led 7-0 after two-and-one half. Kilman had an RBI triple, Jodi Eckert had three hits and an RBI.

Horton gained the win and had a homer in the win over Round Lake. Three runs in the fifth and seventh innings were the difference.

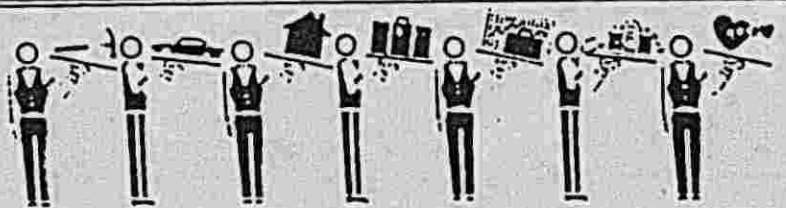

"The whole season it's been not one single player, but the entire team," Smithhisler said.

Big impressions from small lawn

golf courses: proper mowing, watering and fertilizing.

Mowing

Here is one chore where small yard owners have it made. With a small lawn you can use almost anything from an old fashioned push mower to a high-tech electric mower that floats on bed of air.

Small lawns have lots of stops and starts and more than their share of tight corners. Often the best way to cut grass in tight spots is with a hand-held grass shear.

On uneven ground, special care must be taken to avoid cutting the grass too low.

Generally, you're better off keeping your grass on the longer side to encourage deeper rooting and thus better drought tolerance.

Additional reminders about mowing: don't cut the grass when it's wet because the mower tears the grass; leave the clippings on for free mulch and to save on fertilizer; alternate the direction of the cut each week to avoid putting ruts in your lawn from the wheels on the mower.

Watering

Many homeowners with small yards enjoy watering their lawns by hand. That's okay as long as you water deeply. Deep watering encourages the grass roots to grow more deeply in search of that water. That gives you a tougher, stronger lawn.

Water early or late in the day to reduce water loss due to evaporation. During the summer, you may not be able to water due to drought restrictions. Don't worry. The high heat and lack of water will signal the grass to automatically go dormant and stop growing. Though it will turn brown the lawn will revive itself when the weather cools and the rains return in the fall.

During droughts, avoid fertilizing your lawn. This stimulates the grass to grow and increases its need for water.

Fertilizing

Using a traditional lawn food spreader within the confines of a small yard can be tricky. The extra maneuvering required to navigate tight corners can result in uneven application of fertilizer, which results in very noticeable burn spots or uneven growth. An excellent alternative is a "spray-on" water-soluble fertilizer. This feeder is a hose-end sprayer that automatically mixes the right amount of water-soluble fertilizer with water. It dispenses up to 50 gallons of liquid fertilizer in 12 minutes.

Because liquid fertilizers are fast acting, they must be applied more frequently than a dry powdered fertilizer. That's okay, because experts recommend small frequent feedings rather than a large single dose feeding.

The best time to feed grass is during the cooler spring and fall seasons, when the grass is most actively growing. Try to avoid feedings before a heavy rain.

If you have a small yard, you know you don't have to spend a lot of time maintaining it. However, chances are you're more devoted to detailing every inch of that property than those with much larger spreads. It's not the total effort that counts—it's the effort per square foot.

One thing's for sure, some of the most beautiful properties you will ever see are a quarter acre or less in size. Some things never change, though. The keys to success for small yards are the same as those for properties as big

To save water, concerned gardeners use soaker hose

This spring and summer, gardeners can conserve water when tending their gardens by installing a soaker hose system rather than by using conventional watering methods.

According to "Turn off the Tap," a guide to water conservation, 45 percent of the U.S. population will live in areas regulated by water-usage legislation by the end of 1992. In 1991, 25 percent of the population was affected by such legislation. So, conserving gardening water makes good sense for the environment and your pocketbook.

According to garden watering experts a soaker hose can use up to 70 percent less water than a hand-held hose or sprinkler system.

Hand-held hoses and sprinkler systems are not as water efficient, because spray watering allows most of the moisture to evaporate into the air or to run off before it has a chance to soak into the ground.

A soaker hose, on the other hand, can be installed in the ground under a top layer of mulch or soil, which means water won't evaporate. Instead, it will soak through slowly to plant roots.

Soaker hoses can also be laid on top of the soil for better maneuverability and ease of use, but the most water efficient method is to bury the hose.

Quality soaker hoses "weep" water slowly through their porous walls, allowing a consistent application of water to plant roots. The amount of "weeping" water can be controlled simply by adjusting water flow at the faucet. Uniform watering can lead to the fullest, healthiest plants.

Some tips on how to save water when tending your lawn and garden: •Bury the soaker hose 2 to 6 inches deep in the ground for the most water efficient use.

•When possible, if using a hand-held hose, water plants early in the morning. You will lose less water to evaporation at this time of day than in the afternoon, when the sun is high.

•Don't let soil dry out. Instead, water your plants consistently with less volume during the week. Moist soil allows water to reach plant roots more efficiently through "capillary" action. Inundating dry soil with excess water can also waste it by causing runoff and can "starve" plants between watering.

•Use plants indigenous to your geographical area. Such plants are equipped to use water most efficiently for their climate, especially in drier conditions.

•Group plants of similar water requirements so you don't waste water on plants that don't need it.

Battling Japanese Beetles

For many gardeners, the return of spring and summer also means the return of Japanese beetles.

These voracious pests are easily identified by their shiny, metallic green bodies and copper-brown colored wing covers. Although the adults are only about one-half inch long, they are capable of doing a large amount of damage to over 300 species of plants. Japanese beetle grubs, the pest's larval stage, do additional damage beneath the soil by feeding on turf-grass root systems.

Fortunately, you can minimize damage from Japanese beetle populations with carbaryl insecticide. Carbaryl insecticide poses little environmental hazard and controls over 500 species of insect pests.

there is a convenient granular formulations to control Japanese beetle grubs, as well as liquid formulations which can be applied with either pump-up sprayers or convenient hose-end sprayers for control of adults on trees, shrubs, vegetable gardens and lawns.

For the best control of adult Japanese beetles on foliage, make applications during the warmest part of the day, when they are most active. Many gardeners try using Japanese beetle traps. But be forewarned that these often do an effective job of attracting the pests from your neighbor's yard into yours.

Buffalo Grove outguns Wildcats in OT shootout

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

It was a tough way to lose and an even tougher way to end the season for Libertyville in the championship match of the Grayslake sectional Tuesday.

Buffalo Grove won the match 1-0 with a 3-2 shootout advantage after regulation and two sudden-death overtimes failed to present a victor.

"I don't care for the shootout," Libertyville coach Andy Bitta said. "It's a terrible way to lose and a terrible way to end the game."

The Wildcats — last year's state champs — dominated in scoring opportunities with 22 shots-on-goal.

"We played very well — we just didn't get the shots into the goal," Bitta said. Their goalie (Laura Sandt) was up to the task. We outshot them 2-1 — I think that's safe to say."

Libertyville goalie Kathy Oboikowitch was also up to the task, holding Buffalo Grove scoreless until the shootout.

In the shootout, Buffalo Grove's Kim Neumann, Megan McBride and Joy Ehlenfeldt made good on three of the team's five attempts. Kelly Karl and Tara Harpe connected for the Wildcats.

Libertyville finished at 15-5-2. Bitta will lose eight seniors but have 14 girls coming back next season.

"It was a great season," Bitta said. "We started off very slowly and went on to go undefeated in 17 straight games."

Buffalo Grove (18-1-1) will be one of eight teams in the state finals, which begin Friday, June 5.

Libertyville nine pledges to be ready for sectional

Zac Adams spoke like a gambler holding a full house.

"We'll be ready," he said.

Adams, the talented Libertyville pitcher, was speaking just after he had struckout 14 Carmel batters to gain Libertyville a spot in the Waukegan regional final against Warren.

Yes, those same Blue Devils who swept the Wildcats two weeks earlier to claim the North Suburban Conference championship. But at Libertyville, when it comes to choosing between league titles and post-season success, the Wildcats will choose the latter any day.

The aces held by the Wildcats this quick 90-minute 5-4 thrilling win over Warren included little-used pitcher Robert Nettles, hot bats by Matt Kosowski, dramatics by a pinch hitter Chris Frey and Scott Schleiden, and a solidly played game by catcher Matt Beitzel.

"This is sweet," Kosowski said as the celebration of earning a trip to the Barrington sectional continued.

Nettles won all three decisions this year and had an ERA under two, but arm problems hampered his development.

"He did a nice job. You could see he had a lot of life on the ball. He would throw every five or six days and then again when his arm was ready to go. I was surprised to get six innings out of him," Libertyville Coach Jim Panther said.

Nettles faced only one shaky inning — the fourth. Craig Shelton walked and Glenn Chesser singled before Bob Olson stepped up. Olson, the designated hitter, blasted the first pitch over the left-field fence for a 3-3 tie. Nettles walked another batter, but got the next two on ground-ball outs.

Libertyville (28-10) takes on Fremd (19-12) June 6 at the Barrington sectional in a 10:30 a.m. game.

Kosowski had three hits in the 7-2 win over Carmel and added two more in the win over Warren. "I had been in a slump the last week and one-half but my Dad to put the bat farther back. I have been seeing the ball pretty well since," Kosowski said.

With the game tied 4-4, Ryan Harmon singled and was sacrificed to second by Fry. After a flyout, Schleiden delivered the key hit off unbeaten Warren pitcher Craig Shelton — a single to right for the 5-4 lead.

"I was waiting for a curveball and that is what he threw," Schleiden said. "We were so pumped up. They had had our number."

Warren went down fighting in the seventh. Kosowski came on to pitch in the frame and immediately got Jeremy Wilnot on a strikeout.

Jason Schwab singled. Schwab attempted to steal second base, but was gunned down by Beitzel.

"Beitzel had had a bad day in the double-header. If that is all Shelton (Warren Coach Ron) saw of him, then, yes, I would have sent the runner, too," Panther said.

With two outs, Warren clawed away. Brian Karolewicz walked and Craig Shelton singled.

But Chesser grounded out to shortstop and the moment Adams and the rest of the Wildcats were preparing for was at hand.

Adams, LHS's bats hit peak just at right time

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Ever have one of those Mondays when a raise, bonus, and a stock split start your week?

Libertyville pitcher Zac Adams had just such an afternoon Saturday at Al Groche Field at Bowen Park in Waukegan. Adams fanned 14 Carmel batters as the Wildcats (27-10) eliminated the Corsairs 7-2.

"I had 13 strikeouts in a summer game. I got ahead of the hitters. All three pitches were working well. I threw strikes when I needed them," a happy Adams said.

Their batting averages may indeed have an asterisk now B.Z. — Before Zac. Afterward, he complimented the Corsairs.

"They're a good hitting team," Adams said.

Adams said the slider was working well as he shut down the bats which led Carmel (23-12) to an East Suburban Catholic Conference title.

"He is very good. What takes away the sting is he is such a good kid," Carmel Coach Chuck Gandolfi said of Adams.

"The last two games he has looked very good," Libertyville Coach Jim Panther said.

Carmel's bubble may have started to burst by a base-running miscue in the first. CHS scored a run, but could have scored more.

"That was an important momentum-changer," Gandolfi said.

Adams, bound for Southern Illinois University this fall, got out out of a big fourth-inning jam. Carmel scored on a walk, stolen base, and then a Dan Devito single. But Adams then got Kent and Joe Keller on strikeouts.

Libertyville's Jamie Carruthers continued his hot hitting. The sophomore first baseman had a triple and a homer. He had homered in a 12-4 regional opening win against Grayslake.

"He has home run power. Any time he goes to the plate, he has the possibility of popping one," Panther said.

"I had to get used to the faster fast-balls and curves," Carruthers said of changes made from underclass ball last year.

Ahead by two runs, Libertyville gave Adams a cushion to work with in the fifth. Brandon Harmon walked before

'I got ahead of hitters. All three pitches were working well.'

-Zac Adams

Carruthers blasted a home run for a 6-2 lead. Another run scored on two walks and an RBI single by Matt Kosowski, who had four hits.

Devito sent a long flyball to centerfield with two outs in the seventh inning.

"I thought it was out of here. I was going to just go to work on the next batter," Adams said.

But sure enough, center fielder Scott Schleiden made the catch up against the wall.

Panther points to a split with highly regarded Naperville Central as a key to LHS's surge. "That showed the kids they are capable of playing against a lot of good teams," Panther said. Another plus is the steadiness of the emotions in what can be a long season.

Adams heads into the sectional with a 9-2 record, 2.80 ERA. Robert Nettles, who won over Warren, is 4-0 with a 2.17 ERA. Carruthers is 7-2, 2.73 ERA; Schleiden is 3-1 with a 1.75 ERA and Kosowski is 2-2 with a 2.79 ERA.

Joyce, Lipski end year with bright track notes

One area runner closed out his career the way he wanted to while another found a successful season peaking at the right time at the state track and field meet at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston.

Stevenson's Pat Joyce won the 3,200 as the highlight for Lake County qualifiers. Scott Lipski of Antioch closed out the season with an eighth-place in the 800 meter run.

Joyce, the cross country champion, outdistanced second place Maha Martinez of Hoffman Estates in 9:23.1 Chris Brown of Libertyville was 11th in 9:48.24.

"Pat ran a very smart race. He did what he had to do to get the job done. There were six surges in the race and in the last 300 meters it boiled down to Pat and Martinez. Pat took off in the last 150 feet," Stevenson Coach Hank Andrew said.

Joyce had to have similar late-race kicks in the sectional and that helped, An-draws said.

How did Joyce's run sit with an impartial observer? "He ran real well. He ran his race," Antioch Coach Norm Hahn said.

Other Stevenson highlights included Jonas Jocson making to the semi-finals with a 10.8 in the 100 meters.

For Lipski, bronchitis and the state-level competition and weather all were working against the Antioch senior.

19 Wins, second in NSC pace MHS spikers season

Mundelein High's volleyball team won 19 matches and reached the finals of the regional tournament.

That will be the highlights for the Mustangs, who were eliminated by Lake Forest after defeating Libertyville. This year marks the first official state boys volleyball tournament. Stevenson, meanwhile, was ousted by Glenbrook North in a three-set battle.

"Lake Forest did to us what we did to Libertyville," Mundelein Coach Dan Szymkowiak said.

The Mustangs ousted the NSC rivals 17-15, 15-10

before losing to Lake Forest 15-6, 15-13.

"We played a real good match. Everything seemed to be clicking," Szymkowiak said of the Libertyville match.

Dave Hampson led the way with seven kills, 13 serviced points while Chad Mirock dominated at the net. Josh Clement led the Libertyville attack. He had nine kills, including one which tied the first game at 15-15.

Mundelein pulled away from a 10-8 lead in the second game, ending the Libertyville debut season at 5-10.

The Scouts dominated the first game of their own regional final Saturday. "They played well. We started out OK, but they played a lot better with blocking and serving," Szymkowiak said.

Mundelein regrouped in the second game, led by 100 percent serving from Dave Hampson, Matt Piomonte. Shawn Hampson led in hits and Mirick and Brian Kobeck had three blocks.

Stevenson ended its season at 15-16-1 after falling to Glenbrook North. The Pats won the first game 15-13, but lost 15-7, 15-10.

Driscoll continues hex on 'Dogs in post-season

The Chicago Blackhawks and the Wauconda High baseball team had something in common Saturday.

They found the third time was not the charm going up against a talented foe. As the Blackhawks were falling for the third time to Pittsburgh, Wauconda lost to its post-season nemesis Driscoll 7-3.

Highlanders pitcher John Mika had the Bulldogs number for the third straight year as he improved to 9-0. Driscoll eliminated Wauconda 1-0 and 5-1 the previous two years.

"He is a good pitcher. He threw strikes with all his pitches," Wauconda Coach Jim Van Fleet said.

Wauconda finished the season at 19-16. Len Stanley was tagged with the loss to end his season at 7-4.

"We peaked at the end of the year. We played several games against some good competition," Van Fleet said.

Wauconda won its own regional with a 16-8 win over Oregon. The 19-16 team finished second in the Northwest Suburban Conference.

Driscoll took a 5-1 lead after three innings and added two in the seventh. Wauconda scored its runs in the second and two in the sixth. "They're solid everywhere," Van Fleet said of Driscoll.

Kevin Cajda's single led to the first Bulldog run, scored when Stanley drew a walk.
